

RUSSIAN ARMY IS MOVING TOWARD THE PLAINS OF HUNGARY

WITH THE CAPTURE OF MAIN CHAIN, BATTLE WHICH HAS LASTED 80 DAYS COMES TO AN END IN THE CARPATHIAN MOUNTAINS.

BELIEVE WILL DRIVE OUT ENEMY

Manner in Which Czar's Troops Have Conducted Winter Fighting Subject
of Great Praise—Woevre Condition
Mingled on General Joffre, French Commander.

London, April 12, 10:30 p. m.—With the capture by the Russians of almost all the main chain of mountains, the battle of the Carpathians, which has lasted upward of 80 days, is apparently reaching a termination over one extensive front, and the Russians are said to be moving at various points
by railway and roads and along the rivers and streams down the southern slopes toward the plains of Hungary.

This movement, if it continues successfully, will in the view of the Russian military authorities, compel the retirement with little or no righting of the Austrians and Germans who are still north of the Carpathians to the east of Uzsok Pass and in Eastern Galicia and Bukovina.

The battle which has been thus successfully conducted by the Russians was, from all accounts, one of the fiercest of the war, and the manner in which the Russians overcame the difficulties of mountain fighting in midwinter has been the subject of praise
by those who witnessed the operations or are acquainted with the country.

The first phase of the battle of the Woevre also apparently has come to an end, and interest now centers on the next movement of General Joffre, the French commander, in his effort to compel the Germans to release their hold on St. Mihiel and that part of the plain of the Woevre included in their wedge. The capture of 1-Epagres was in the opinion of British military officers, a long step in the direction desired by the allies, but they place even more importance on the advance from Regneville toward Thiaucourt, the southwestern corner of the latter town is a railway center from which the force at St. Mihiel draws its supplies.

This battle has not as yet proved the prelude to a general offensive in the west as was expected. This is probably due to the fact that instead of moving troops from other points along the line to assist the army of the Woevre, the French have brought their reinforcements from the interior of Germany or perhaps right from the eastern front and consequently the situation remains comparatively quiet in the western front.
German submarines have again been showing activity, and besides the Harpalyce, which according to one member of her crew, and the officers of another steamer, was torpedoed,
they have attacked the Saturday night British liner Wayfarer, the French steamer Frederic Franck and the little steamer President.

The Wayfarer reached Queenstown
in a sinking condition, the Frederic Franck was towed into Plymouth and the steamer was still afloat when her crew of ten left her.

The mystery of the North Sea firing on Wednesday last remains unsolved so far as the general public is concerned.

Democratic Ticket Sweeps at Houston

Houston, April 12.—The entire city democratic ticket was elected by large majorities and the vote was slightly larger than usual in city elections.
Candidates for all offices were placed on the ballot by the socialist party and each of the candidates received slightly more than 100 votes.

Fire Commissioner H. A. Halverson led the ticket with 1,000 votes. Commissioner Dave Fitzgerald, Mayor Ben Campbell, Street and Bridge Commissioner Matt Drennan, City Controller
E. B. Bonney and Tax Commissioner
J. J. Pastorius, all received more than 1,000 votes.

A proposed ordinance providing that bakers should wrap all loaves of bread was defeated.

SUMMARY OF WAR

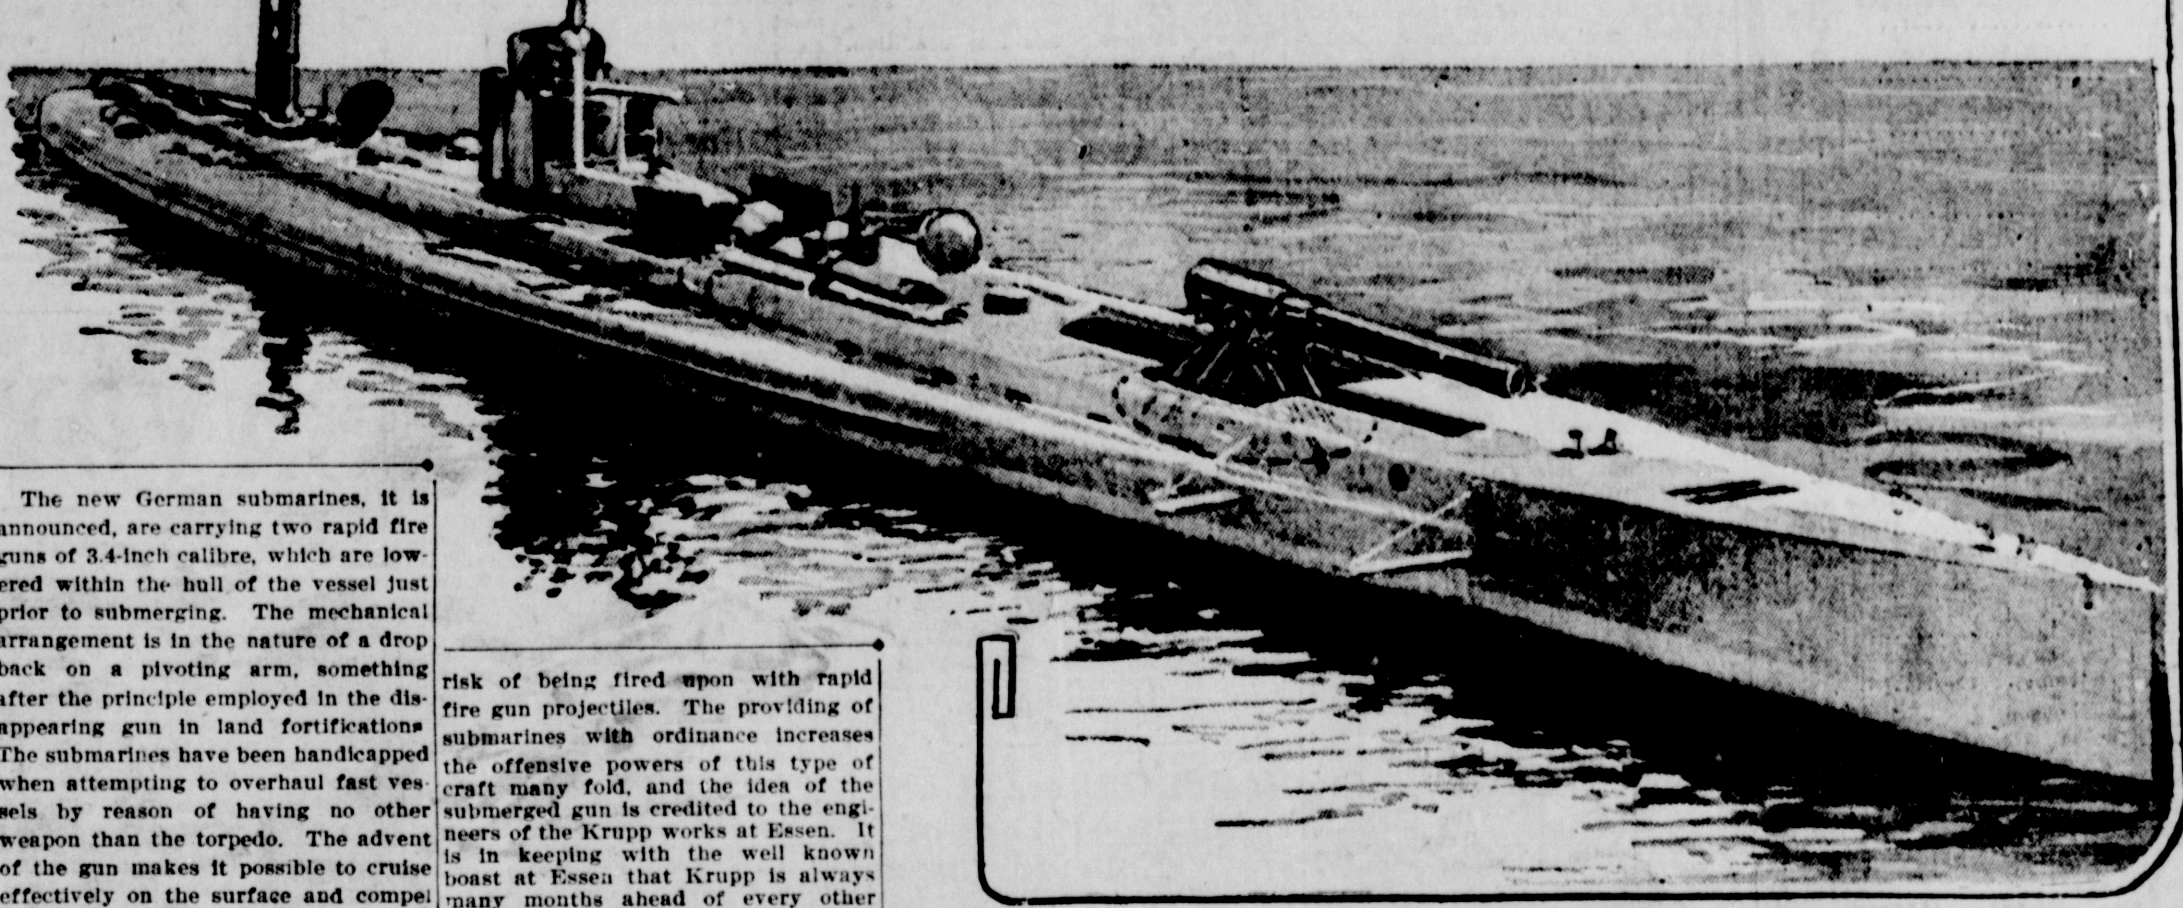

Les Eparges, captured on April 9
by the French after a series of desperate engagements, costing countless lives, has again come under fire of the German guns. It was around this point that the Germans, according to a French official report, lost 30,000 men in two months' fighting. It is here that General Joffre, the French commander, is bringing his strength to bear on the German wedge to force it out of the allies' side, so that the allied line that stretches in front of the great German fortress of Metz may be straightened.

After a lull of two days the Germans prepared for their counter attack on Les Eparges by a severe bombardment and a heavy rifle fire, then in the early hours of the morning they advanced on the position which the French had made even stronger than when the Germans held it, but were forced to retire. The extent of this offensive is not known, but it has been reported that the Germans look upon this position, which commands
the plain of the Woevre, as one of the greatest importance, and further attacks may be looked for.

Otherwise the situation in the western war zone is of comparatively lit-

THE RAPID FIRE DISAPPEARING GUN IN USE ON GERMANY'S NEW SUBMARINES.

GERMAN SUBMARINE'S PIVOT
DISAPPEARING GUN

The new German submarines, it is announced, are carrying two rapid fire guns of 3.4-inch calibre, which are lowered within the hull of the vessel just prior to submerging. The mechanical arrangement is in the nature of a drop back on a pivoting arm, something
after the principle employed in the disappearing gun in land fortifications.
The submarines have been handicapped
when attempting to overhaul fast vessels by reason of having no other weapon than the torpedo. The advent of the gun makes it possible to cruise effectively on the surface and compel a merchant craft to heave to at the risk of being fired upon with rapid fire gun projectiles. The providing of submarines with ordnance increases the offensive powers of this type of craft many fold, and the idea of the submerged gun is credited to the engineers of the Krupp works at Essen. It is in keeping with the well known boast at Essen that Krupp is always many months ahead of every other gunmaker.

VICTORIANO HUERTA ARRIVES IN NEW YORK: WILL GIVE INTERVIEW

MAN WHO WOULDN'T SALUTE
FLAG ADMIRES AMERICAN NATION.

New York, April 12.—Gen. Victori-ano Huerta, former provisional president of Mexico, who for nearly a year has been an exile in Spain, arrived here today on the Spanish steamship Antonio Lopez from Cadiz.

General Huerta was passed by United States immigration officials as a transit alien, after he had declared
under oath that he would do nothing that would in any way involve the neutrality of the United States.

The former president said that he had come to the United States partly for pleasure and partly to attend to some personal business connected with family matters. He swore that he had no intention of going to Mexico or Cuba. The length of his stay here, he said, was indefinite, but he would return to Spain, possibly sailing from New York early in May.

General Huerta was met at quarantine by representatives of the press
and by an array of photographers.
While submitting to being photographed in every desired pose, he declined to say anything as to his mission, agreeing to meet newspapermen
at his hotel here next Friday morning.
Regarding this appointment, he said:

"I understand that my presence in this country creates in you the desire to know my views about the affairs of Mexico, and I promise to satisfy your wishes to the best of my ability. I beg you, gentlemen, to remember that no interview with me should be considered authentic unless it carries my personal signature."

American Accompanies Huerta.

General Huerta was accompanied by Gen. Jose C. Delgado, who has been his private secretary for ten years, and by Abraham Ratner, a personal friend of the general, who declared himself as an American citizen,
giving his residence as New York. Mr.
Ratner said that he had lived in Mexico at varying intervals for twenty years and that he left the country for Spain on May 27, 1914. Other passengers on the ship said that while General Huerta was extremely agreeable, he mingled but little with his companions.

Washington Bank Accuses the Treasury of Conspiracy to Wreck the Institution

Washington, April 12.—Secretary
McAdoo of the treasury and Comptroller of the Currency John Skelton
Williams were made defendants today
in proceedings begun in the District of Columbia supreme court by the Riggs National bank of Washington, D. C., which alleges that these officials have combined and conspired to wreck that institution.

Temporary and permanent injunctions to halt the alleged conspiracy and to prevent the comptroller from making what the bank charges are unlawful demands for special reports of various kinds are sought from the court.

One portion of the prayer seeks to restrain John Burke, treasurer of the United States, from paying into the treasury $5,000 a day for failure of the bank to make certain reports.
Once paid into the treasury, only an act of congress could get the $5,000
out. Justice McCoy late today granted a temporary injunction on this phase of the case and set April 15 as the day for answer by the defendants.

The bank's bill of complaint contains thirty-seven specific allegations.
It recites that evidence of unusual desire for information concerning the bank was shown by Mr. Williams shortly after he assumed office more than a year ago, and has continued ever since. In December, 1913, it says, Mr. McAdoo charged officers of the bank with responsibility for publications concerning a local financial deal involving two trust companies. When this charge was denied, the bill asserts, Secretary McAdoo cursed and abused a vice president of the bank,
and said to C. C. Glover, its president:
"Mr. Glover, you know what this means to the Riggs National bank."

Claims Made Threat.

"Meaning thereby," the bill adds,
"that the power of the treasury department would be aggressively used for the ruination and destruction of the plaintiff bank in order to satisfy the personal malice and ill will of said defendants and shortly afterward the said defendants began a series of publications against the plaintiff bank
for the purpose of impairing or destroying its said business, thereby prostituting their high public office and violating their oaths in order to venture their personal vindictiveness
against the officers of the plaintiff bank."

A few months later, the plaintiff alleges, the bank was notified that Secretary McAdoo had proposed to exclude the Riggs bank from a share of deposits to cover the District of Columbia tax withdrawals, which deposits by custom are divided among the national banks of the district.
Mr. McAdoo later wrote to Mr.
Glover, the complaint states, declining to explain why such action should be taken and announcing at the same time his intention of withdrawing his government funds from that bank.
Subsequently, it is alleged, government deposits amounting to over $1-200,000 were withdrawn from the bank, including Panama canal deposits amounting at one time to $138,- 472.

These withdrawals were brought about by Secretary McAdoo, it is charged, at a time when the European war and the business depression in the United States had made banks husband their resources.

For almost a year, the bill avers,
the controller has been making demands for special reports. The bank declares that it has been working in an effort to comply, but that requests for a little time have been met with refusals.

In making some of these demands,
the bank alleges, Mr. Williams has violated the fourth and fifth amendments to the constitution.

In February last, according to the bill, Mr. Williams wrote to the bank asking if its officers had destroyed

any of its records, and on March 30
he demanded a complete history of loans of the Riggs bank to its present officers and gave notice that for failure to comply with a like request made on January 22 it was assessed a penalty of $5000.

The next day a formal demand for payment of this fine made by two bank examiners, was refused. On April 1 a quarterly installment of the interest on the $5,000,000 of two per cent held by the Riggs bank—in the controller's custody, to secure its circulation—came due. The controller, the complaint set forth, "wrongfully and unlawfully" ordered the treasurer of the United States to withhold
the payment of this interest.

The bill asks that Mr. Williams be enjoined from revoking the Riggs bank designation as a depository of the reserves of other national banks.
An injunction to restrain Mr. McAdoo from usurping the powers of the treasurer of the United States also is asked and the court is asked to find the sections of the revised statutes dealing with the examination of banks unconstitutional and void if they "must be construed as they have been and are being construed and enforced" by the defendants.

Williams Makes Statement.

Comptroller Williams issued this statement tonight:

"I have not seen the bill filed by the complainants, but have read the extracts furnished the press.
"The recent investigations of the affairs of the Riggs National bank disclosed irregularities and unlawful practices on the part of certain officers of sufficient importance to merit their reference to the department of justice and that department engaged the services of Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, some weeks ago as special counsel in the case, and it is consistent with the attitude of these officers to attempt by unwarranted and untrue statements to place themselves and the bank in a position of martyrdom at the hands of the administration.

"This office is prepared to show a condition of affairs in the management of this institution which fully warranted
the action taken by this office. The bank is solvent. The interests of the depositors have been safeguarded by the actions of the comptroller's office,
but if the methods and practices complained of had been permitted to continue they would have been serious.
"The penalty imposed for failure to make reports, the collection of which penalty they seek to have enjoined, grows
out of their unwillingness to disclose
the true nature of the transactions engaged in.

Wanted to Stop Practices.

"The whole purpose of the department has been to require the bank to give up the unlawful and dangerous practices
and methods which had been in vogue
for years past and which had threatened alike the welfare and security of both shareholders and depositors.
"In efforts to ascertain the real truth,
requests for data in various cases were made and refused and on March 30 the Riggs National bank was notified of the imposition of a penalty of $5000 under section 5213 of the United States revised statutes for its refusal to furnish information to the comptroller's office
in regard to its affairs.
"On April 5 the comptroller of the currency addressed a letter to the bank,
calling its attention to various false statements which had been made by its officers under oath and what are regarded as deliberate efforts to deceive
the department and notified the bank that the comptroller of the currency will until further notice, refuse to approve the Riggs National bank as depository
for the reserves of other national banks."
Attached to Mr. Williams' statement are extracts from letters sent to the bank at various times since July 22, 1914,
which charges that officers of the institution had benefited personally from use of the bank's funds through "dummy"
loans and that a policy of fostering stock
speculation among clerks and professional men had been followed by the bank. Various other allegations also are made, most of which the bank's officers seek to make answer. The bill of complaint also gives extracts
of some of these letters, and the replies
made by the bank.

San Antonio, Tex., April 12.—A message from Aguas Calientes says that Villa troops have been pouring into that town in a demoralized condition,
after having suffered defeat at Celala, Guanajuato. General Piquez of the Carranza forces is in possession of the railroad from La Piedad to Ira-ing his troops to Aguas Calientes to form a junction with General Angeles,

who is reported moving in this direction from Monterey. With the combined forces, Villa plans to make an other stand. Colonel Saenz of Gen-

KRON PRINZ WILHELM NOT YET ALLOWED TO GO INTO DRY DOCK

COMMANDER MUST MAKE FOR-MAL REQUEST IN WRITING
FOR TIME.

Newport News, Va., April 12.—The German merchant raider Kron Prinz Wilhelm, by orders of the Washington government, will not be permitted to go into dry dock at the ship yard
here until Lieut.-Captain Thierfelder,
her commander, has made formal request in writing for time to complete such repairs as he deems necessary to make his vessel seaworthy, probably tomorrow.

Meanwhile the Kron Prinz remains at anchor in the James river. When examined late today experts found the ship was leaking slightly, with her boilers in bad condition. Unofficially it was learned that the vessel will require much attention before she can be made seaworthy. This was taken to indicate that the ship eventually may be forced to intern.

The German captain, however, is insistent that he must hasten to repair his ship and return to the high sea.

Captain Thierfelder tonight told of his dash for Newport News after destroying the British steamer Coleby on March 27.

"We started north from the equator
short of coal and provisions," said Captain Thierfelder. "We also had sick sailors aboard, afflicted because of too much rice diet and lack of fresh vegetables. We hoped to make up with German supply ships, but unfortunately none turned up. What became of them I do not know, except we saw from shelter of overhanging clouds one collier we had expected being chased by two British cruisers, which fortunately could not sight us."

Few Chances to Get Coal.

"Unfortunately, we also on our trip
north through the mid-Atlantic did not meet up with any merchant ships from which we could get coal and supplies. In this situation it was necessary for us to get to port and also to a dry dock, and I picked out Newport News as the place to come to."
"As we came up we continually heard the British warships talking on the wireless. It seemed on some days and nights that there were as many as eight warships within a radius of five hundred miles. But we kept on."

CARRANZA TO AID ALL WHO DESIRE TO LEAVE THE MEXICAN CAPITAL

WILL PERMIT PASSENGER TRAIN
FROM VERA CRUZ TO PROCEED
AS FAR AS OMETUSCO, FORTY MILES EAST OF CITY, AND TAKE ON REFUGEES.

GROWS OUT OF EFFORTS OF U. S.

American Government Brought Pressure to Have Road Neutralized.
Foreigners Planning to Leave Tampico as Soon as Transportation is Received.

Washington, April 12.—General Carranza informed American Consul Stillman at Vera Cruz today that he would furnish a train for Americans desiring to leave Mexico City. He will permit a passenger train from Vera Cruz to proceed as far as Ometusco, forty miles east of Mexico City, where the Mexicans would be picked up. The first chief asked to be notified as to the number of Americans expecting to leave and the time they wish the train to be ready.

The action grew out of the effort of the United States government to obtain the neutralization of the railroad between Mexico City and Vera Cruz.
Although unwilling to make any permanent arrangement, General Carranza now has expressed a desire to reach the sea coast.

Many Americans and foreigners in Tampico similarly are planning to leave as soon as transportation arrangements can be made. Secretary Bryan sought the aid of the United States government today and the transport Summer at Galveston was ordered to Tampico to bring back the 300 or more refugees.

In its summary of reports from Mexico today the state department said work was proceeding slowly on the railroad south of Piedras Negras because of lack of material, and traffic
would not be resumed for three weeks.

Fighting on West Coast.

Some fighting was reported from the west coast and the outcome of an attack on Acaponeta by Carranza forces was not definitely known. Both forces were short of ammunition, the report said. A mail censorship has been established at Colima, which explains the recent mining decree.

The abandonment of the proposed Villa attack on Nuevo Laredo was reported from the border. General Hernandez having returned to Piedras Negras with his forces and the remaining Villa troops not being strong enough to attack.

The Villa agency made public today
the following statement from Diaz Lomardo, mining director at Colima, explaining the recent mining decree:
"The provisional government does not mean to confiscate the mines, but to re-establish in effect some provisions of the old mining laws, which provisions are universally adopted and enforced and which consist in declaring the forfeiture of a mining property when, without justified cause, it is not developed or operated within a given time or when the owners of said property fail in the payment of the taxes. One of the provisions of the old law re-established is that no mining property can exceed 15 percent of the claims for each individual or 150 percent for a company."

"This last regulation will have no retroactive effect. Existing properties are not subject to its application.
It is intended to take care of future claims."

Little Fighting at Matamoros.

Brownsville, April 12.—Fighting by small parties of the Carranza garri-llas against the Villa troops about Matamoros continued today. All were unimportant. The largest occurred between about 50 Carranza troops and a small body of Villa men.
The Carranza forces were victorious
and the Villa forces were killed or wounded. Carranza party won the cow. Villa officers said their casualties were two wounded in a fight about daybreak.

General Jose Rodriguez, commanding the Villa troops, startled visitors at his camp today with a display of rifle marksmanship. He fired a bullet from a soldier, he took aim and fired at the hat of another soldier who stood about 50 feet away with his back turned. The shot penetrated the hat. The soldier wheeled and saluted. Thereupon Rodriguez put another bullet through the hat. The soldier then politely removed his hat, bowed, laid it on the ground and moved a few steps away from the hat.

No artillery has arrived yet at the Villa lines, but at General Rodriguez's
camp it was announced that his headquarters train with the military band
aboard was on its way to the Matamoros line.

fellow passengers, keeping with his two companions.
There were no Mexicans to meet him at quarantine. On the pier, however, were gathered a number of men who have been identified with Mexican affairs, among them being General Quiros, General Orozquito and General Serrada. These men greeted General Huerta affectionately, embracing him and being in turn embraced. As he came down the gangway two Mexicans, standing nearby, lifted their hats and exclaimed, "Viva Huerta."
Around the pier were gathered several hundred persons, a number of uniformed police officers and plain clothes men being in attendance. No demonstration was made, however, as General Huerta took his departure in a taxicab with his friends.

Captain Head Present.
Among those at the pier was Captain George J. Head of the Texas National Guard, the man who delivered to Huerta in June, 1913, the ultimatum of Governor Colquitt of Texas that if a single Texan was harmed by bullets coming over the border his generals and commanding officers would be held to personal account. Captain Head said that he was here to meet General Huerta simply as a friend. Huerta, who gave his business as an importer, said that he had been with General Huerta for several months. He said that the general would not enter into the States on personal business and that Mexican politics would not enter into it. He added that the general might go to Washington before returning to Spain. Mr. Ratner added that to his knowledge General Huerta had not seen Gen. Porfirio Diaz while he was abroad.

To all appearances Huerta has changed but little since he left Mexico. While he is credited with having a fair command of English, what little talking he did was through an interpreter. Through the interpreter he warmly thanked the photographers and reporters for the interest displayed in his arrival. Pressed for an interview, he said:
"It is a pleasure for me to be in the United States and it gives me an opportunity to admire the greatness of the American people, whom I salute through their press. It is nothing strange that should consider my first duty to salute this great nation, as many of its citizens have been and are my personal friends."
Immigration and custom officials said they had received no special instructions from Washington regarding the landing of General Huerta. He took his place in the Antonio Lopez, passing the government officers and receiving the same consideration as all. The queries put to him were of the regular order, and the him were of his possible detention depended on the answers he made.

WESTERN UNION HEAD BEFORE COMMISSION

CARLTON TESTIFIES IN INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED BY INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS.

SAYS WON'T DEAL WITH UNIONS

Agrees That Telegraph Operators Are Underpaid—On Collective Bargaining.

Chicago, April 12.—President Newcomb Carlton of the Western Union Telegraph company and S. J. Koenekamp, president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, testified before their respective viewpoints before the United States commission on industrial relations today on wages and working conditions of the commercial telegraphers.

Mr. Carlton caused a mild sensation when, replying to a question from Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the commission, as to whether telegraphers were adequately compensated, he replied:

"I believe that the telegraphers are underpaid," exclaimed Mr. Walsh. "No, underpaid. Ten years ago a Morse telegrapher received $18; it is now $23. It was $13.50 for women and it is now $18. My own wife is that a first-class telegrapher should be able to earn at least $5 a day of nine hours. Some of our employees under the so-called premium plan are making close to that."

The witness stated that his company had one of the best pension and relief organizations in the country and it costs the men nothing. Half a million dollars was expended on it last year, he said.
"I do not mention this as a substitute for pay; nothing can take the place of that; it is merely our contribution to society, and it is good business," said Mr. Carlton. His opposition to the organization headed by Mr. Koenekamp, who followed him on the stand, was made plain in various utterances. He admitted the principle of collective bargaining, and that a "responsible organization of Western Union telegraphers could be dealt with. The men should have some organization to protect their interests, he stated with emphasis.

Object to Interstate Commission.
"We are subject to the control of the interstate commerce commission," said he. "They absolutely fix not only our practices but our rates. I believe therefore, that the commission should be given sufficient power to see that fair wages are paid and that fair working conditions are provided."

The policy of the Western Union, witness stated, is formed by the executive committee. Jacob Schiff, a member of that committee, was quoted by Chairman Walsh as having said that the company respected employer would refuse to deal with the representatives of union labor.

"Is that your opinion?" asked Mr. Walsh.

"I believe in the organization of labor and in collective bargaining," said he. "If he had refused to deal with the Commercial Telegraphers' union, he said:

"I don't know that I specifically refused to deal with them, but I would specifically refuse to deal with them if they applied to me," answered Mr. Carlton.

Telegraphers have been dismissed from the company for activity in union affairs, he admitted.
"Our opposition to the union is well understood," said he.

Mr. Walsh mentioned instances where it had been alleged that the company was resorted to by the special agents in obtaining correspondence and names belonging to the union.

"I want it understood that we will fight, but there are some things that we won't do, not if I know it," answered Mr. Carlton.

Open Door to All Employees.

"What is the labor policy of your company?" asked Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the commission.

"My general plan is an open door to all employees," was the reply. "I have seen a great many who were dissatisfied. I would say roughly, that 60 per cent of the cases appealed to me result in favor of the employees. This is not a wholly satisfactory system, for no one can possess the qualifications necessary to decide the case justly."

"I think there should be a federal commission to safeguard our employees, to assure them fair wages and working conditions."

"Does your company favor collective bargaining?"

"The executive committee determines our policy."

Mr. Walsh explained that the questions he was asking were drawn up by telegraphers.

Mr. Carlton said he believed in the organization of men and collective bargaining.

"I do not believe in collective bargaining," said the witness.

"I believe in it through a federal commission, as I suggested."

Mr. Koenekamp referred to some methods of the Western Union as "criminal" and "slavery." He estimated the commercial telegraphers employed by the Western Union and the Postal Telegraph company at 20,000. His union, he said, had agreements with the Canadian Pacific, the International News Service and the United Press. These, he said, recognize the principle of collective bargaining and adjustment of grievances. He declared that wages were lower now than they were forty years ago.

No Surprise to Koenekamp.
The constant opposition of the Western Union to unions is no surprise to us," said Koenekamp. The company has been consistent in that for fifty years and for thirty years the possession of a union card has been the signal for dismissal. Correspondence of the union has been stolen from our men, and the heads of telegraphers began to fall soon after the result of the information thus obtained."

He gave details of several such alleged instances.

The witness said that his remedy was government protection of the right of the men to organize and to bargain collectively. Officials of the Postal Telegraph and Cable company are expected to be among the witnesses tomorrow.

Before the telegraph case was taken up Frank Comerford, attorney for the railway telegraphers' department, continued the testimony interrupted by adjournment last Saturday. He suggested as a remedy for strikes voluntary arbitration through the government and compulsory publication by newspapers which the government

Mr. Carlton was the first witness in the telegraph case. The Western Union is capitalized at $100,000,000 and pays 4 per cent dividends. It has 40,000 employees.

Health Officers at Austin on Care of Epileptic Insane

Austin, Tex., April 12.—County Health Officers D. Berrey of Bexar county, E. S. Cox of Galveston county and W. H. Martin of Harris county were here today and urged the governor that provision be made in the general appropriation bill for the care of the insane epileptics of the state.

The visiting health officers, who came here on their own volition, had a long conference with the governor, and with the subcommittee. At present the state has no provision for caring for the epileptic insane, and as a result the county jails and poorhouses are crowded with them.

Appropriation for University Will Not Be Reduced

FIGHT FOR CONTROL ROCK ISLAND HEATED

MINORITY FACTION DECLARES HAS BUT BEGUN REORGANIZATION IS PLANNED.

NATHAN L. AMSTER PRESIDENT

After Prolonged Meeting, One of Majority Is Elected—Directors to Be Paid.

Chicago, April 12.—Insurgent stockholders of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad, at a prolonged meeting tonight, elected Nathan L. Amster of Boston, one of their leaders, to the board of directors. Amster was one of four new directors chosen, the others being W. Emlen Roosevelt, William J. Matheson and Charles Hayden, all of New York.

The minority faction declared the fight for control and reorganization had only begun.

Resolutions contemplating a general change in the government of the Rock Island were adopted viva voce. One resolution proposed by the Holland stockholders, which was adopted, provides that a committee be appointed to consider limiting the directors to five men and to pay them salaries for their service, with the understanding that they would devote their time to the company's interests.

The other resolution, proposed by Peter T. Tenyke of Albany, N. Y., as adopted, provided for the appointment of a committee of five stockholders to revise the bylaws. Both committees are to be appointed within 30 days.

Andrew J. Sheriff of Chicago, proposed a resolution ratifying the acts of the directors and tellers at the meeting and it was adopted.

It was announced that Timothy S. Williams of New York, was to have a place on the board at an early date through the resignation of an unnamed director.

Vote on Motion to Adjourn.
It was late in the evening when the tellers finally reported that the vote on motion to adjourn was 151,579 favorable votes against 437,197 opposed.

Bernhardt Naumberg of New York, representing minority holders, entered a formal protest against the vote and the grounds of his protest were that the stockholders had no right to elect a committee to revise the bylaws.

It was rumored that 245,000 proxies had changed hands within the last few weeks, but the vote on the adjournment motion was thought to show approximately the strength of the Sheldon faction and its opponents.

It was said the new board at its meeting in New York next Wednesday would make recommendations to the stockholders.

Y. M. Mudge and Chairman Schumacher in regard to its policy. These include the normal outlay of 27 per cent of the receipts of the ensuing year in maintenance expenses, with no extraordinary outlay of any kind and no big financing.

Des Moines to Dominican Waters.

Washington, April 12.—The cruiser Des Moines will be the only additional warship sent to Dominican waters until further details of the differences between Jimenez and his confederates are received here. The Des Moines was ordered today from Progreso to Santo Domingo City on request of Minister Sullivan.

The Nashville already is at Santo Domingo City.

The attention of officials here has been chiefly focused upon the economic situation in the island republic recently. What was regarded as the tendency to extravagance on the part of the Dominican authorities was checked within a fortnight when the United States cut off an allowance of $2,000 daily which the Dominicans had been drawing from their custom reserve funds to satisfy a deficit in current expenses.

Their identity was not disclosed. All the British sailors took the oath, but claimed it was under duress.

Ten more cases of beri beri were reported aboard the Wilhelm today, making a total of 110. None of the men will be removed.

Further evidence that allied warships were on the Wilhelm's trail was given tonight by Captain Lucas of the British ship Berwindmore, who followed the German raider into the capes. He said that when the Wilhelm passed within the three-mile limit he saw her stern reflected by a searchlight and that he later discovered the light had been thrown from afar by a French cruiser.

Late tonight it was learned that a preliminary survey of the Kron Prinz Wilhelm had convinced experts that the ship could not be made seaworthy in less than three weeks. No official report to that effect has been made, however. The Wilhelm's pumps were working constantly and the bilge water from her pipes was unusually heavy. The leaks were caused by frequent coaling at sea and ramming merchantmen when shots failed to sink them.

Commander Thierichens of the intimated Prinz Eitel Friedrich, who turned tonight with Captain Thierfelder, denied intimations that he had used his wireless while in port here to communicate with the Wilhelm.

He had given his pledge to this government not to use his wireless, he said, and he had kept the pledge.

OVERCOMING DRIFT TOWARD RAGTIME.

The Morning News wishes to commend the Euterpean Club for its decision to give a recital at the High School auditorium in the near future for the special benefit of the High School pupils, announcement of which was made in the musical department of last Sunday's paper. This will afford an evening of pleasure and culture to the young people who hear the program and we are sure the effort expended will be quite worth while.

It is in just such a manner that those who are in a position to appreciate and render good music can overcome what many persons declare to be a marked tendency toward ragtime music in the children and young people of today. Children and young people are, more largely than we recognize frequently, the creatures of habit and environment and if they are more for ragtime than they do for classical and other standard music it is because they have heard it more often and have yielded more readily to its popular appeal than to the cultural value that comes through the study and hearing of music that is more than pleasing noise. Musical critics and others in various parts of the country have deplored the tendency toward ragtime on the part of our young people, but we have seen few suggestions as to how to overcome that tendency.

And while we have heard no complaint from the Euterpeans that the children and other young people of Waco were deserting classical music for ragtime, they are paving the way for the pupils of the public schools to enjoy a larger appreciation of music that is worth while by giving an occasional concert for their benefit. And the instruction in music afforded by the public schools of this city is having a very wholesome effect in this direction, too.

Another item along similar lines in Sunday's News told of the splendid work which the women of the Evangelia Settlement are doing in furnishing instruction in sewing and cooking to deserving girls of the city who have no opportunity to take such instruction in the public schools. The class in sewing numbers more than twenty-five, while a dozen girls are taking instruction in the art of preparing food for table use. There is abundant opportunity in this city, as everywhere else, for constructive service of this character and we are glad to see the women of the city rendering that service in such an efficient and effective manner.

Messrs. J. A. Littlefield, T. A. Caulfield and J. W. Foster retired to private life yesterday after having served for varying terms on the city commission. We believe they strove to do their duty and that they retire from public station with clean skirts. They are succeeded by Messrs. Ben C. Richards, Wiley J. Dunken and W. H. Cockerott, who are the choice of the people for those positions and who are conversant with the duties of the offices to which they have been elected. The Morning News hopes for the incoming officers an administration that will in every way conserve the interests of this city and will gladly co-operate with them in the accomplishment of that end.

Governor Carlson of Colorado is to be commended upon his decision to veto the bill, passed by the legislature, which seeks to kill the juvenile court of the city and county of Denver, over which Judge Ben B. Lindsey has presided with such efficiency and distinction. And Judge Lindsey is to be congratulated upon the fact that he has been exonerated of all charges brought against him and that one of his chief detractors has been indicted for criminal libel.

Eighty-one years young yesterday was Judge John G. West of this city. Old in years, but young in body, mind and soul, Judge West is an example of what right living will do for a man, and we join his friends in wishing for him just as many more birthdays as he can care to celebrate.

CONTRABAND AND PROTECTION OF OUR RIGHTS.

There was every reason, practically, why the United States should not comply with Germany's request that this country place an embargo upon arms and war munitions to the allies simply because the German navy is unable to protect shipments of such goods which might leave this country for German shores. The United States is not responsible for the weakness of the German navy nor the strength of the British, and instead of this country showing absolute neutrality by placing an embargo on arms and munitions, which would hurt England only to help Germany, such a course would be a violation of the spirit if not the letter of neutrality, for it would be favoring one belligerent at the expense of another, under ordinary conditions.

When Russia and Japan were engaged in their conflict Germany did not hesitate to keep her gun and powder factories working overtime to supply Russia, her next-door neighbor, with the munitions of war, though it was impracticable for Japan to compete with Russia in this regard. And it is in poor taste now for Germany to be declaring that this country should refuse to supply one of her enemies with the supplies of war when she did the same thing under similar circumstances.

But in the suggestion of Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador to Washington, that the United States should employ the embargo on the exportation of arms and munitions to the allies as a retaliation against England for her violation of international law in the interruptions to American commerce, there is a suggestion that may be worth consideration. We are not in favor of using threats to bring about results, as a rule, especially unless one is prepared to make good those threats if necessary, and of course the president cannot levy an embargo on the exportation of produce or goods of any character without the special permission of congress and congress is not in session at this time.

But the textile mills of this country are sorely in need of additional dye stuffs and unless plans materialize for the production of those dyes in this country, or additional supplies can be procured from Germany, our textile mills, employing many thousands of people, will be forced to shut down and these employees will be driven into involuntary idleness. Germany wants more of our cotton but is unable to get it, though we need to let her have it. Our commerce to various neutral countries is seriously crippled by the high-handed methods which England and France are employing under the latest order-in-council of the British government, and which were employed even in advance of the promulgation of that order.

Protests by the state department have seemed ineffective and while we would not suggest any course for our government which might involve us in international complications, England and France could not justly complain if the United States should employ an embargo on arms and munitions of war if this should be found to be necessary to protect the rights of our commerce from the powers of these countries which appear to be willing to abrogate the terms of international law simply because they apparently have the power to do so and go unpunished for it under the present circumstances. We hardly think it would be necessary to call a special session of congress in order to accomplish the desired results in case the administration should deem it advisable to pursue the course suggested. A word from the president to the effect that he would seek the permission of congress to levy an embargo on arms unless the proper freedom were accorded our commerce would bring England and France to law immediately and we are persuaded it might not be amiss to address something a little sterner than protests to Great Britain if she persists in handicapping our foreign commerce.

FLEETING FAME.

"But who is Artemus Ward? One sees him quoted occasionally in the English press, but something tells me that he was—or maybe—an American." Thus a writer in the esteemed Springfield Republican, and apparently, as far as the context shows, in all seriousness. So much for the fleeting fame of the greatest American fun maker of his generation, who died, still a young man, in England forty-eight years ago, observes the Boston Herald. There was nothing English about him except his popularity as a lecturer there, and his death there from consumption. He sleeps under a modest, moss-covered stone in the little cemetery of his native town of Waterford, Maine—he spoke of it as "Waterford, not far from Rumford." And on the stone is his real name, a name that now means far less than that under which his droll and whimsical humor won him the unstinted applause of his contemporaries—Charles Farrar Browne.

It is of interest to note that the leading American humorist of the generation before Artemus Ward was also a Maine man, though his name is even less heard today—Seba Smith, a native of Buckfield, whose wit and satire made him a national figure in the politics of his day. And Maine likewise gave the world the leading American humorist in the generation that followed Artemus Ward—Bill Nye, a native of Shirley, near Moosehead lake. All of them died far from their native state, and the world which forgets its fret and care in laughing at them and with them forgets them almost as quickly as its laughter dies away.

There is more prosperity on the way. The Santa Fe railroad has let the contracts for the expenditure of $300,000 in the state.

SUSPENDED SENTENCES AGAIN.

Several days ago The Morning News made the following observation on the frequent use of the suspended sentence by the petit juries in the district court of this county:

"Ten suspended sentences in twenty-four hours is the record of the Fifty-fourth district court. Evidently the petit juries of this county want the grand jury to know that they are not going to stand for any dictation. But the indiscriminate granting of suspended sentences is a serious blunder, and juries owe it to society not to let their sympathies undermine their backbone."

Commenting on this observation, State Press of the Dallas-Galveston News says: "Too much of a good thing may turn out to be rank poison. It is apt to work this way: In a county not very far away a band of tough thieves in their teens and twenties were caught, tried and let off without punishment until they ceased to fear or to care for the law. They are said to have robbed the same old man's home four times. Still the mushy jurors, who had heretofore enabled and encouraged them to commit crime, acquitted them again. Then the citizen who had been robbed and mistreated time and time again determined to protect himself, as the courts had refused to do it. He caught some of the squad robbing his home again, and emptied two loads of buckshot into them. The next day a relative of one of the boys shot the old man. Relatives of the old man are lined up in a deadly feud, and thus the anarchy has started. Law-abiding people who have been wronged by criminals have a right to demand the fair enforcement of the law; they pay for that and themselves stand subject to it. Of course, they are not qualified to administer justice in cases in which they have been victimized and their prejudice and malice cannot be permitted to control; but unless the punishment is fair and the protection in reasonable, then their prejudice and their malice are going to be heard from in the end; and they mean buckshot and rope. This argument might be carried further and applied to governors or others who abuse the pardoning power. Surely they have no right to turn out upon law-abiding citizens convicts who may be expected to return home and murder their wives, or the witness who testified against them, but over-generous jurors, judges or governors who fancy that there is no danger limit are apt some day to come themselves face to face with the vengeance and anarchy which they have encouraged."

ITALY AND HOLLAND.

The situation among the neutral European countries is uneasy today that it has been for a long time, observes the Dallas Times-Herald. Holland appears to be hesitating on the brink of hostilities with Germany, and Italy keeps edging towards the battle line. It would not be surprising if very soon Switzerland should occupy almost a position of splendid isolation, with all the other European countries, Spain excepted, tearing at each other's throats.

With Holland it is a question of shipping. The Dutch country is said to be very uneasy because of its merchant vessels having been seized or sunk by German submarines. Italy has suffered little from loss of shipping. But Italy sighs for certain parts of Austrian territory that were formerly hers, and the Italian nation has long been straining at the leash. War against Austria would be popular with the Italians. The situation there is this: The Italian government has all along been laying a restraining hand on the Italian people. There has never been a time since the great war when a proclamation of war against Austria would not have been received by an overwhelmingly approving national acclamation.

With Holland it is different. Once the Dutch begin to fight there are no people who fight more determinedly. The history of the country, its heroic struggle against Spain, its naval exploits against England, show that. But the Dutch are not of the impetuous Italian type. With them there is no such hatred of the Germans as with the Italians there is hatred of the Austrians. Their country has never been oppressed by Germany as Italy has been oppressed by Austria. Therefore, if Holland enters the bloody arena the entrance will be "for business reasons only," will be because Holland feels it imperative that it should adopt drastic measures for protecting its shipping.

Some believe that the entrance of these two nations would hasten the end of the war. Of that there is no assurance. Germany seems to be glowing with as much indomitable courage as filled the Teuton heart when the gauntlet was thrown down. The strength of Germany is still a mighty strength. "The war will end in October," some of the wise ones now say. That it will end and soon all America desires.

From reading the statement of the late captain of the ill-fated submarine F-4, and that of the inspector as furnished to the naval department at Washington, it would seem that somebody has been misrepresenting things or somebody has been sleeping on the job. The government should spare no pains in getting at the real facts in the case, if such are available, and then acting upon them accordingly.

It would appear that Attorney General Looney's department has adopted for its motto something like this: "Count that day lost whose low descending sun views from thy hands no anti-trust suit begun."

England may still be queen of the seas, but those German raiders are exceedingly lucky in their depredations and in their slipping into American ports for repairs and supplies.

RATES ON COTTON GOODS INVESTIGATED.

TEXAS MAN TELLS WHAT INCREASE WOULD MEAN TO TEXAS MANUFACTURERS.

WHO WOULD PAY IS QUESTION.

Witnesses Differ, One Says Jobber and Another Declares Would be Manufacturer.

Chicago, April 12.—Testimony in the western rate hearing before William Daniels, Interstate Commerce commissioner, today concluded the increase in freight rates proposed by 41 western railroad systems on cotton piece goods, one of the commodities on which they seek higher transportation charges.

Two long tables at the side of the commissioners' chair were heaped with bolts of dry goods at the afternoon session, the articles being an exhibit presented by Leon Smith of Kansas City, a witness called by shippers to controvert the testimony of railroad witnesses.

Mr. Smith, who is president of Smith-McCord, Townsend company, dry goods jobbers, directed most of his testimony to a comparison of his exhibit with a list of commodities presented in the testimony of S. H. Johnson, assistant freight traffic manager of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway.

Mr. Johnson had listed a consignment of goods in the southwest territory on which the advances in rates are proposed and valued the shipment at $65 a hundred pounds. Witness Smith told Commissioner Daniels that the Johnson list had evidently been made by a person not familiar with the dry goods business, as his exhibition, following as far as possible the items listed by Johnson, had a value only of $27.45 a hundred pounds.

"The railroad list shows that the compiler took the high and the low prices of different fabrics and missed the grades in which the volume of the dry goods business is the greatest," said Mr. Smith.

Tickings, denims, ginghams, linings, cotton flannels and calico were displayed and the average price and volume of business in each explained by the witness.

Railroad Estimates Too High.

"If we could sell our cotton piece goods at the prices presented in the railroad list we would make over 100 per cent profit," said Mr. Smith.

Thomas Byrne of Omaha, testified that the proposed increase in freight rates would have to be absorbed by the jobber if it was allowed, as it was too small to be added to the price per yard of goods.

John A. McDonald, manufacturer of men's working clothes at St. Joseph, Mo., testified that the proposed increase in freight rates would be paid by the manufacturer as his product had a fixed retail price.

"Overalls uniformly sell for $1 and shirts for fifty cents," said the witness. "The retailers do not want to handle any other kind."

John A. McDonald, manufacturer of men's working clothes at St. Joseph, Mo., testified that the proposed increase in freight rates would be paid by the manufacturer as his product had a fixed retail price.

The Texas plea was presented by J. C. Saunders of Bonham, a manufacturer who detailed the condition of Texas cotton mills and the difficulties under which they operate.

The increases sought by the railroads on cotton goods comprise an advance of five cents a hundred pounds from such points as Chicago, St. Louis and Minneapolis to western trunk line territory, Kansas and Nebraska, and an advance of five cents from Texas producing points to the Missouri river and points west of there, 10 cents to points east of the Missouri river and west of the Indiana-Illinois line, 20 cents east of Chicago and 10 cents to the seaboard by way of the Gulf.

Texas Goods are Coarse.

Mr. Saunders declared the product of the mills in his state was largely coarse goods—single filling duck and bag sheeting. He testified that fuel transportation and wages were high and that the cotton piece goods the Texas mills could not compete with New England and southeastern mills.

The witness asserted that the proposed increase in freight rates would be a heavy burden on the Texas mills. He estimated the increase yearly on one mill as approximately $4000.

On cross-examination the witness said that expected increases in state freight rates had figured largely in his estimate of the amount of freight increases and the actual increase under the new rates proposed for interstate freight would be less than $800 on the output of that one mill.

Commissioner Daniels said to McDonald:

"There is one point I would like to clear up. This morning a Texas mill manufacturer would have to pay the increase in rates; this afternoon jobbers said they would have to pay, and now you will have to. How is that?"

"I don't buy any material from Texas," replied McDonald. "I only use colored fabric, which they do not make." Both jobbers declared that they bought practically no goods from Texas.

A reply to the objection of the railroads to answering 36 interrogatories touching the financial condition of the roads was filed with the commissioner by Clifford Thorne, chairman of the shippers' committee. Mr. Thorne insisted in his reply that the request was reasonable and would entail little expense to the railroads and contrary to the view of the objectors the questions were not asked out of curiosity but were vital to the case.

OUR ROAD TO SUCCESS Waco Ad Club

With the Most Profound Apologies to Rudyard Kipling.

A fool there was and he had to work
(Even as you and I).
To dig and strive and plan and think (We knew the Ad Club was our one device),
But the fool felt he needed no advice
(Not as you and I).

Oh, the years he lost and the toil he lost,
And the work of his head and hand
Belonged to the business that did not grow
(And now he knows it never could grow)
For he would not advertise.

A fool there was and his life he spent (Even as you and I).
In a business with no upward bent
(And it wasn't because of wrong intent),
But the fool was afraid of spending a cent
(Not as you and I).

Oh, the years he lost and the toil he lost,
And the excellent things he planned
Belonged to the business that did not grow
(And now he knows it never could grow),
For he would not advertise.

The fool lost all he ever had saved
(Not as you and I),
Which he might have known when all alone he slaved
(But we begged him to join and he refused),
So we got him a job and he lives a recluse,
(Not as you and I).

But it isn't the cost and it isn't the loss
That too late has made him wise,
It's coming to know what he might have been (Seeing to us what the Ad Club has been),
If he had only advertised.

Letters from the People

Opposes Naming Nurse.

To the Waco Morning News:

How many more fads is Waco committed to? In China there is a custom that physicians use means to keep the people well, but I didn't know there were places in this country on the eve of adopting a similar custom. Imagine my surprise when I noticed the names of a few physicians who favored giving one item of their work to a so-called visiting nurse. I remarked this act of philanthropy is certainly a development of the European war. You know we put everything out of the common on the war.

The call to the mass meeting Friday did not bring out the 4,000 who favor this lecturer. Nurse is a misnomer, as you discovered from the reading of her paper. As her work will be largely among the women who labor at home and often away from home, how can it be managed to have these women get the lectures? Could not a competent woman be found in Waco? If this movement was purely a desire to help conditions, wouldn't it have been more gratifying to the promoters to put their heads in the sand and make up the sum of $100 a month and turn it over to the United Charities fund and have the secretary and board buy food and necessary articles for the poor? It seems contradictory to our claim that we have the lowest death rate in the state, according to population.

With my hat off to the public spirited women, I must say their motives may be good, but their judgment is poor. By reading and observation, they should know conditions and they should think twice before they burden their home town with heads in the sand. The growth of the city depends largely upon the taxpayers. With a depleted treasury it is high time to call a halt before adding to this burden. If it is allowed there will be no limit to detriment to the growth of the city. I am afraid our men are carrying the act of chivalry too far when, just because a woman suggests a measure, they think they must sanction it even if it is not for the good of all concerned.

This country is making history and each municipality must keep within the bounds of reason. Were our tax rate lower, we could not afford to ape Dallas and other cities. We are just a good-sized town with purports and environments to become a city if we will listen to those who are competent to lead us into brighter and higher things. Do not let a personal feeling get the best of you. Do not knife a high official to the detriment of your city.

If nothing more than an act of courtesy, the outgoing commissioners should have left this business to the new commissioners, to have tried and proved.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

FLADEN SOUP.

LUNCHEON MENU.

Fladen Soup.
Fried Oysters. Mashed Potatoes.
Cream Cheese and Nut Salad.
Floating Island. Coffee.

AN unusual soup, which is sure to meet with approval, is fladen soup.

Into four well beaten eggs stir eight heaping tablespoonsful of flour, beating till smooth. Stir in enough sweet milk for very thin batter. Put one tablespoonful at a time into a hot frying pan slightly greased with butter, spreading the batter evenly over the surface by tipping it about. Fry to a light brown and turn pancake. When done roll up and place in soup tureen. The fire must be hot and the baking done swiftly. There should be no hard crust. Stew the chicken or soup bone till done and pour the broth over the pancakes after slicing them. Salt the soup, not the pancakes. Serve hot.

Fried Oysters.

Select largest and best oysters. Rinse quickly with cold water and drain. Pat gently with a soft napkin until dry. Beat two eggs until light, add tablespoonful boiling water, season with salt, pepper and dash of tabasco. With a steel fork caught into the eye of the oyster dip in egg mixture, then in cracker dust; repeat. Fry in deep, hot fat until brown.

Cream Cheese and Nuts.

A small cream or Neufchatel cheese, two large tablespoonsful of chopped walnuts. Moisten the cheese with cream or milk, season with salt and pepper, mix nuts through it. Place a mound of this on lettuce leaves moistened with French dressing.

Floating Island.

This is an old fashioned dessert that deserves attention. To make it, cook the beaten whites of four eggs in spoonfuls in a quart of scalding milk in a double boiler. Drain the whites in a wire sieve when they are cooked and return the milk that drains away from them to the double boiler. Beat the yolks of four eggs with two or three tablespoonsful of sugar and a tablespoonful of vanilla and add to the milk. Stir until the custard is thick and smooth. Then pour it into a dish and chill and serve with the cooked whites on top.

Cash Stores Proving Popular in Every Section of Country

New Institution in Waco Will Proceed Along Lines of Others That Have Succeeded.

When the European war cast its shadow over the entire world last fall, many small business houses in the United States suffered. Especially was this true of the merchants in the south who had extended credits on the anticipation of a large and profitable cotton crop. People began to think and many stores which had been on a credit basis went on a cash basis, because they were practically forced to do so.

Ideas of merchandising have been undergoing a change in America, though, for a number of years. Time was when almost everything was sold on credit. Bad accounts would necessarily be made, and in order to take care of them in the face of keen competition it was necessary to raise prices on many articles. People began to grumble and those who studied the markets kept wondering why they had to pay more than what seemed to them a legitimate profit.

Cash stores were the logical outcome, and they have sprung up all over the country. Overhead expenses are reduced, for it is not necessary to keep a force of bookkeepers to post accounts, make out bills and other things of that sort. Everything being paid for in cash, it was not necessary to employ a collector. And, greatest of all to the consumer, since he had bills could accumulate, it was not necessary to make any allowance for what was paid for the goods and the straight cost of selling them in the store.

In this issue of the Morning News will be found a list of some of the cash stores in the south. The Star Cash stores in Dallas are located in many sections of that city and are doing a big business. And now Waco is to have a similar concern in the recently started institution which has been named the Cash Mercantile company, with the main store at 403 South Third street.

Such institutions are growing in popularity in the south. The Star Cash stores in Dallas are located in many sections of that city and are doing a big business. And now Waco is to have a similar concern in the recently started institution which has been named the Cash Mercantile company, with the main store at 403 South Third street.

Another advantage which owners of cash stores point out is that nobody can possibly have to pay anybody else's bill. Of course, if your name happens to be Organowski, Selfrid-arian or some other uncommon cognomen, "you should worry." But just think of the large number of Smiths, Browns and Joneses whose names are carried, and remember that clerks can make mistakes.

Katy Tourist Rates to North and East Effective June 1

Summer tourist rates to the north and east will go into effect on June 1, instead of May 15, as first announced, according to a letter being sent out to traveling representatives and ticket agents of the M. K. & T. by W. G. Crush, general passenger agent. The letter states that the delay in putting the rates into effect is due to the fact that the agreements with the various lines affected had not been received by the Southwestern Passenger association in time to put the rates into effect on the fifteenth.

Dr. N. T. Harris Found Dead in Fort Worth

Dr. N. T. Harris, for fourteen years a resident of Waco, was found dead yesterday morning in the Arlington Heights sanitarium, which is located in a suburb of Fort Worth.

Harris went to the sanitarium about a month ago suffering from a nervous breakdown. News of his death was unexpected, although he had been suffering for some time. He was found by a nurse, Miss Eva Harris, who is his sister. Dr. Harris was born in Mississippi, and another Dr. Sam Harris, in Tuscaloosa, Ala.

While in Waco Dr. Harris practiced dentistry, first coming to Waco during the early nineties. After a few years he left Waco, returning about nine years ago, since which time he made his home here continuously. Besides his sister and cousin, he is survived by two brothers, one H. H. Harris, living in Vicksburg, Miss., and another, Dr. Sam Harris, in Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Local Lumbermen to Attend State Meet at Houston

ROBERT L. HENRY IN RACE FOR SENATOR

RURAL CREDITS MEASURE ONE OF LEADING PLANKS IN CONGRESSMAN'S PLATFORM.

FOR NATIONAL ADMINISTRATION

Hope Expressed That Nationwide Prohibition Will Not Enter Into Campaign.

Announcing some of the planks of the platform upon which he will run, Congressman Robert L. Henry yesterday formally declared himself a candidate for United States senator, to succeed Charles A. Culberson. Mr. Henry will occupy his home on Columbus street and has secured offices for headquarters in the Peerless building. He said last night that "things looked good," and that he was confident his central Texas friends would give him a big vote from this section of the state.

"Yes, I am a candidate for United States senator in the primaries of 1916," he said. "At this time you may say that I shall defend the acts of the democratic party at Washington during the last four years. I would not vote to repeal any of the laws enacted by the last two democratic congresses. Their wisdom will be abundantly proved by appropriate trial."

"It is deeply gratifying to me to note in the Dallas Morning News of today that Senator Owen of Oklahoma, chairman of the senate committee on banking and currency, has courageously come over to my plan of government aid in a rural credits system both as to real estate and personal loans. We passed through the house, by a vote of 4 to 1, during the closing days of the recent congress a rural credits bill embodying the principle of direct government aid and it was smothered in a conference between the senate and house. The next congress should enact a law for the benefit of landholders and tenants with the principle of government aid as the controlling feature, providing for adequate loans to land owners and tenants so that their needs, both as to real estate and personal credits, shall be supplied. By this method we should make it possible for the farmer to improve his farm, and the tenant should thus be enabled to purchase and improve a home. We should fill this rural credits bill with abundant government aid, just as we have done by utilizing the credit of the government for the commercial banking system in the federal reserve act. This measure shall be my 'meat and drink' till we win or become overwhelmed by superior force and numbers in congress. I am today congratulating Senator Owen on his brave stand."

"My hope is that the friends of nationwide prohibition will not thrust it into the senatorial and congressional campaigns, as is now being rather freely suggested in Texas. This course will imperil a fine program of purely legislative matters by unwisely inflaming the country on a moral issue. I am presenting to congress, as specifically outlined by me in my speech on the Hobson amendment before the national house of representatives last December.

"At a later day I shall state in the plainest language at my command my position on every pending issue and give out a formal statement outlining at length a platform of issues and principles for which I shall contend. Upon my record of twenty successive years in the American congress I shall go before the Texas people and the country and personally meet the voters face to face for a discussion of public issues.

"And while defending the acts of the democratic party at Washington, I shall not fail to do what the state administration in Texas, for, in my judgment, Governor Ferguson and the Texas legislature are making a wonderful record for. I shall defend the Texas newspapers that there are hints of opposition to the governor for his second term. By all the rules of right he should not have any opponent for another term, but if opposition should appear, I shall steadfastly support Jim Ferguson for a well-merited second term. My habit has never been to mince matters or sidestep issues in politics, and therefore you might as well say now what you certainly will have occasion to quote from me later—that I shall advocate the re-election of Ferguson. He has even thus early richly earned it by a noble record of achievement. He has kept faith with the people, and such public servants deserve our praise and support, even if we do not agree with them in all things."

Y. M. B. L. MEMBERS WILL MEET TONIGHT

SIREN WHISTLE WILL SCREECH NOTICE—CUSTOMARY FEED WILL BE GIVEN.

Reports to Be Received on Trade Trips, Made in Waco Week and Other Important Matters.

For the first time in several months, the Y. M. B. L. siren will screech a notice of the league tonight, the first under the administration of President J. J. Hutchison. For the night, and as a particular observance of the advent of the new administration, the old plan of serving a lunch at the general meetings will be reverted to.

Matters of peculiar importance will make the meeting tonight one of the most interesting of all the interesting Y. M. B. L. meetings. The directors of the league have taken up what promises to be one of the most far-reaching and beneficial of all the Y. M. B. L. accomplishments for the city of Waco and for Texas. A Y. M. B. L. trade week and Made-in-Waco exposition is proposed by the directors, to the success of which will be enlisted all the force of Y. M. B. L. team work and enthusiasm with the co-operation of the Waco manufacturers and the people of the city in general. Details of the plan which has already been published in part in the press, will be submitted to the general membership tonight.

It is planned to lease the building at Fourth and Washington street, formerly occupied by the wholesale department of Sanger Bros., for the two weeks beginning April 26. The building will be divided into booths which will be rented to manufacturers and agents of the city for the display of their products. No sales will be made, but demonstrations will be put on and samples, literature, etc., will be distributed. Special entertainment features will be provided and all the features of a great Made-in-Waco fair will find a place. Special rates will be secured on the railroads, and every effort made to make the Made-in-Waco exposition an annual feature as great in effect on the development of the city and its trade territory as the Cotton Palace has been.

H. R. Armstrong, an experienced publicity man, well known in this section of the country, will have active direction of the exposition, being assisted in an advisory capacity by a committee from the Young Men's Business League.

The report of the trade trips committee will contain the information already published in the press that the first trip of the 1915 season will be run May 6 to Tyler, over the Cotton Belt. Further details as to stops, fares and entertainment features both aboard and off the train, will be reported by the committee at the meeting tonight. Four trade trips will be made by the league this season.

The suit illustrated shows three elegant style features. It is of the popular covert cloth, has the high waist line and the moderately full skirt.

covering as near as possible the entire trade territory of the city. Special efforts are being made to obtain 150 signers for the entire four trips to be made this year, for a dependable nucleus about which a full train can be built for every trip.

An invitation from Captain Harris, government engineer in charge of the work on lock and dam No. 6, eleven miles below Waco on the Brazos, will be presented to the general membership of the league. Captain Harris asks the Y. M. B. L. to set a day and bring fifty automobiles full of Wacoans to inspect the work this week, which is nearing completion. The invitation was received at the last meeting of the directors, but was not acted upon until the general meeting so that the entire membership might take action on it.

An extraordinary attendance at the meeting tonight is confidently counted upon. The membership committee, composed of Robert Frazier, C. P. Link and W. A. Laughlin, have devised a new means of notification to the members of the general meeting. Individual letters have been sent out to all the members, especially inviting them to be present, detailing some of the important matters that will come up. Inclosed in each envelope was an application for membership in the league, which the member was asked to get signed up by some friend and presented to the general meeting tonight.

One of the most interesting reports will be that of the transportation committee. The membership committee, yesterday talked to the mayor and numerous citizens of Mart in regard to the taking off of the two I. & G. N. trains. They all expressed a willingness to join in an effort to either get the two trains placed back on or the schedule changed.

A meeting will be held with representatives of the railway by the committee today. It is hoped that the company will agree to give relief voluntarily. If not, a member of the committee will go to Austin to lay the whole matter before the state railroad commission, which has recently made a ruling that trains cannot be taken off without the company first obtaining permission from the commission.

HIPODROME. "Janet of the Chorus."

Norma Talmadge, the feature star in "Janet of the Chorus," at the Hippodrome today, is one of the youngest leading women of the Vitaphone Stock company. Miss Talmadge is typically American, having been born of American parents at Brooklyn. Her father, Frederick Talmadge, originally came from Connecticut, his ancestors being of English origin, while her mother, whose maiden name was Marguerite Brown, is a native of New York City, coming of purely American stock.

Miss Talmadge was born in 1899 and is one of the very few still in their teens talented enough to head a company of film stars without first having gained at least some knowledge in the school of experience. She had her first try-out before the camera in Vitaphone Broadway star features. The play was "Uncle Bill," and her work won her immediate membership with the company. Her first director was Ralph Ince and it is to his capable direction she attributes the clearness of her first insight into the mysteries of acting for moving pictures. It is the aim of Norma Talmadge to become one of those who reach the very topmost rung of the ladder of motion picture fame and by close application to the needs required will accomplish her purpose, and it won't be long before her name will be blazoned on the screen of stardom in letters of fire.

"Janet of the Chorus" as may be surmised, is a story of the stage. S. Rankin Drew is shown with Van Dyke Brooks and Miss Talmadge. Other pictures today include "The Other Woman's Picture," Eleanora drama, with Richard Travers and Gerda Holmes, and the Edison comedy being "One Way to Advertise."

On Tomorrow and Thursday the newest of the now famous Mutual Master Pictures is programed. Tennyson's celebrated narrative poem is one of the jewels of literature and has been made into a picture a thing treasured and loved by young and old alike. It loses none of its traditional appeal by being incorporated in motion pictures. The production, done by William Christy Carter, is a masterpiece of the art.

As far as the motion picture screen is concerned, Wallace Reid seems to be a satellite of the adorable Lillian Gish, and they are seen together again in "Enoch Arden." Once more Reid succeeds in the hand of Miss Gish, though this time the exigencies of the story prevent her immediate acceptance of this handsome lover, who has won and married her so many times that moving pictures and audiences would not know what to make of it, if any other eventuation proceeded from their joint appearance.

No more compelling emotional climax could be imagined than has been devised in "Enoch Arden."

For today the Nickel offers "The Enemies," a Broadway star feature, with Edith Storey, Harry Morey and L. Rogers Lytton. A synopsis of the story follows:

On his return to his ship, Captain Waverly brings with him his sister, Minnie, a woman once beautiful, but now emaciated from the continual use of stimulants. The captain shows every tenderness upon her, but after a week ashore at New York he returns, and she is broken-hearted and tells the steward she is dead. Irene, the ship owner's daughter, falls in love with Captain Waverly, but he courteously keeps his distance. She is piqued and accepts the attentions of Sargent, a prominent lawyer. In Sargent the captain instantly recognizes the man he has long searched for. He has a dermatological operation performed, transforming his facial characteristics into those of a handsome man, and shortly afterwards is promoted to the command of a new four-masted vessel. The captain is filled with a fierce joy at the realization of the power invested in him. In accordance with his plans, Waverly engages a couple of heavy-fisted men to mate with him, and then Sargent's ship is wrecked on a reef of rocks, and the captain is left alone with the ship.

PUBLIC NURSE PUT ON CITY PAY-ROLL

COMMISSION OVERRIDES CON-TENTIONS OF MAYOR RIG-GINS ON PROPOSITION.

PHYSICIANS ANSWER QUESTION

After Spirited Discussion Meeting Comes to End With All in Good Humor.

What promised at first to be a renewal of the fight over the visiting nurse appointment, between Mayor Riggins and the advisory board provided under the ordinance, at the meeting of the city commission yesterday, ended in a love feast, each party explaining its actions and conceding it had been misunderstood. The tension was completely relieved, and the result is that the mayor practically consented to offer no further obstruction to the employment of the nurse, for the first month at least. Miss Laura Edwards, who was recommended by the advisory board, and whose appointment was confirmed by the commission last week over the protest of the mayor, has been performing her duties since last Monday, when the appointment was made. She has reported regularly each day to the advisory board or to Dr. R. F. Minnick, the city physician.

It was a remarkable session of the city commission. Representatives of the advisory board created by the visiting nurse ordinance passed over the veto of Mayor Riggins last week, were in the chamber to be on hand when Commissioner Caulfield should present his motion ordering that the name of Miss Laura Edwards, appointed by the ordinance as visiting nurse, be put upon the payrolls of the city, and that her salary be paid for the time beginning April 6, when the ordinance was passed over the mayor's veto. This motion was brought forward on account of a statement of Mayor Riggins, published in the Morning News last Saturday, in which he said he did not consider Miss Edwards an employee of the city, that he had ordered the city physician not to recognize her as such until notice from the mayor, and that he would refuse to sign vouchers for her salary.

Commissioner Caulfield's motion prevailed, and the representatives of the advisory board left the commission chamber with Mayor Riggins insisting that he would veto the appointment of the commission and would not sign vouchers for the nurse's pay until he had satisfied himself of her qualifications and had administered the oath of office, and not then for any services rendered previously to that time. The tense feeling that had prevailed at other meetings of the commission when the nurse matter had been considered was very evident.

Physicians Recalled.

Dr. R. J. Alexander and Dr. S. C. Gage, the spokesmen of the advisory board, had hardly reached their offices in the Amicable building when they were again invited to appear before the commission to answer questions as to the qualifications of Miss Edwards for the position, raised by Mayor Riggins, who contended that her qualifications did not comply with the provisions of the ordinance creating the position. After the physicians had answered the questions of the mayor, Dr. Alexander delivered a conciliatory speech, in which he insisted that there was no animosity in a good mayor, in either his public or private capacity, and followed with explanation of the different steps of the medical society and women's clubs of the city in their efforts to have the ordinance passed and the nurse appointed. Mayor Riggins conceded tacitly to obstruct the work of the nurse no further, for the first month at least, and proposed a plan whereby the nurse would after that time work as assistant sanitary officer, and be provided for in the budget of the health department of the city. The second exit of the advisory board representatives was made with everybody in a good humor, and amid many pleasantries and felicitations.

Oath Not Necessary.

When Commissioner Caulfield yesterday morning moved that the nurse be put on the payrolls of the city and be allowed salary from April 6, Mayor Riggins interposed with the objection that the charter of the city provides that officers of the city must take the oath of office. He said that the motion of Mr. Caulfield was a violation of the charter. City Attorney John Maxwell ruled that the nurse was not required to take the oath of office, and that her appointment took effect immediately after the action of the commission April 6. This brought the question of the nurse to Mr. Maxwell, whether he considered the nurse an officer of the city or an employee. Mr. Maxwell said that she was an employee, and not an officer because not elective, and that the oath of office was not required.

Anticipating that the mayor might raise the point that Miss Edwards had not taken the oath of office, members of the advisory board escorted her to the office of the city secretary last Saturday, following certain developments, and had City Secretary John C. Davis administer the oath. Members of the board did not think this step necessary, but took it only that no technical objection to Miss Edwards might be raised upon that point.

Following a question from Commissioner Foster as to why the mayor raised these questions at this time after the commission had taken final action on the matter, Mayor Riggins charged that "those behind it" had not acted in good faith, and had not brought proper qualifications before the commission. He said that he, as mayor, had never been notified that the nurse had begun her work, and that he for one did not know yet whether she had or not. The mayor insisted that he had the right to pass upon the appointment of the nurse by the commission, and could approve or veto it within ten days.

Commissioner Dollins replied that the mayor had already taken his ten days when he vetoed the ordinance, which was passed over his veto. The mayor replied that he would take ten days to consider the appointment of Miss Edwards, made by the commission. Commissioner Dollins retorted that the mayor's part in the matter was over when he vetoed the ordinance, and that the appointment confirmed by the commission went into effect immediately. Upon the mayor's insistence that there was no proof that the nurse had gone to work, the commissioners called upon the physicians present to testify as to whether she had been performing her duties since her appointment. Dr. R. J. Alexander said that she had been at work every day and had reported regularly to the city physician and to the advisory board.

Mayor Is Voted Down.

"I rule that she is not an officer," interrupted the mayor. "She must first take the oath of office, and I have ten days to file my approval or disapproval of the appointment." Commissioner Caulfield called for a vote on his motion, which was to order the name of the nurse put upon the payrolls of the city, and that her salary should start April 6. Commissioner Littlefield asked the mayor if he considered that he, as mayor, had ten days to approve the appointment of a policeman or other officer of the city. Mayor Riggins replied that a different rule applied to such appointments. Commissioner Littlefield continued that civil ordinances and appointments, under the charter, become effective immediately upon appointment, the ten-day provision only applying to penal ordinances. He said that not under the charter or ordinances of the city, or any principles of fundamental law does the mayor have the right to veto an appointment made by the commission. The charter gives authority only to the commission, said Mr. Littlefield, and does not contemplate that the mayor shall be allowed to exercise the prerogatives of that body. The vote for the passage of Mr. Caulfield's motion was unanimous.

After the vote, in which the commission again overrode the wishes of the mayor by ordering that the name of Miss Edwards be put upon the payrolls of the city as visiting nurse, and that her salary be paid from April 6, Dr. S. C. Gage and Dr. R. J. Alexander, representing the advisory board, left the commission chamber. When some other business had been transacted, the mayor again brought up the nurse matter, stating that the recommendations setting forth the qualifications of Miss Edwards were not satisfactory to him; that there was nothing in the various letters to show that she is a graduate or trained nurse, or that she has had the special training in public work called for by the ordinance.

When this question was raised, Commissioner Littlefield suggested that the physicians be requested to return to the commission chamber to answer the objections of the mayor. Chief of Police Guy McNamara, who acted as sergeant-at-arms for the commission, was instructed to invite Dr. Gage and Dr. Alexander to return and answer some questions which the mayor said he wished to ask. While the chief was absent from the chamber, Commissioner Caulfield interposed the objection that there was no further occasion for discussing the matter, that the commission had taken action, which was final, and the mayor had no further voice in the matter. At this, the mayor replied that the commission could do as it pleased, and that he would take such action as he saw fit at the proper time. The mayor then instructed the chief to telephone the doctors not to come. A hurried telephone call from the city electrician's office in the commission room was too late to stop the doctors, who had already left for the city hall.

Following the passage of the order by the commission, Mayor Riggins announced that the commissioners had violated the charter, that he expected to veto the action of the commission, and hold up the appointment until he is ready to approve. When Dr. Gage and Dr. Alexander returned to the commission chamber, and had answered the questions of the mayor as to the qualifications of the nurse, Dr. Alexander addressed the mayor, saying that there had been a desire of the advisory board all along to confer with and co-operate with the mayor. In response to the mayor's statement that he did not believe that Miss Edwards was a graduate of a training school, Dr. Alexander asked if the objections of the mayor would be met if the nurse produced a diploma or certificate of having completed a regular course of training. The mayor replied that a certificate would strengthen the appointment, but he didn't know whether it would satisfy him.

Mayor Says Was Ignored.

Mayor Riggins then made an extended speech, setting forth the different events in the campaign to secure the nurse ordinance which he considered were inconsiderate of his rights. He said that he had consulted the hearts of the women and the doctors were set upon having the nurse, of allowing the appointment to stand for the first month. He added that perhaps he would arrange to have the nurse appointed as an assistant sanitary officer. The mayor claimed that the action of the board in having the nurse sworn in by the city secretary was not legal, that that official is not authorized to administer the oath. Mr. Riggins said that the board had ignored him all along, that they should have come to him to have the nurse sworn in, citing this as one of many incidents in which the board had ignored him.

Dr. Alexander explained reluctance to confer with the mayor at that time by referring to statements made by the mayor. Dr. Alexander said that Miss Edwards had felt that the mayor's statements had been unfair, and that her ability and integrity had been reflected upon, and for this reason the board did not come to him. He said that in the meeting of the advisory board held Saturday it was determined to ask the mayor for a conference, at which the whole situation would be gone over. The mayor said in reply that he could not see why his statement could have been construed as reflecting upon Miss Edwards. He said that he still would say that he was not satisfied with the recommendations presented by the nurse.

Other points of difference between the mayor and the advisory board were discussed, each side making concessions and explanations. Dr. Alexander asked the mayor to name other incidents in which he felt he had been mistreated by the board, in order that they might be straightened out, declaring it was the desire of the board to have the full conference of the mayor and to co-operate with him. Mayor Riggins said there were a number of other things, which he would not mention. Being pressed by Dr. Alexander, he replied: "I think I have already said a plenty, if not too much," which statement brought a gasp of laughter from the persons in the room, showing well the relieved tension.

All Ends Pleasantly.

Dr. S. C. Gage also made a statement, disclaiming any personal animosity for the mayor, saying that no political motives were behind his activity in the matter. Dr. Gage, also, claimed that it had been his desire to confer with the mayor on all points. Mayor Riggins replied that he was always accessible to any citizen of the city, and that no one had ever been denied a hearing before the commission because of any personal difference with the mayor. "I sit here not as J. W. Riggins, but as mayor of Waco," concluded the mayor, "and I think it is a big job."

"I want you to know that I am not after it," responded the doctor, which produced another laugh.

Dr. Alexander announced that a meeting of the advisory board would be held at once, and the mayor would be invited to be present and confer with the members. It was at this point that the second conference of the day between the advisory board and the mayor ended in pleasantries.

BAYLOR WINS FROM DANIEL BAKER 6 TO 5

LOCAL TEAM HOLDS VISITORS EASILY UNTIL THE EIGHTH INNING.

Boots Enable Brownwood Collegians to Put Across Five Runs.

After chalking up four runs and holding the Daniel Baker collegians of Brownwood scoreless until the eighth inning, the Baylor Bears gave the visitors five runs on a succession of errors and only won their game by a rally in the last inning, which concluded the fracas with a 6-to-5 score on Carroll Field yesterday afternoon.

Sanderford held the Collegians down for a good game from the mound until the blow-out in the eighth, when Coach Mosley sent in Farrington, who put the kibosh on the box of the Bears. Reagan occupied the box for the visitors and failed to show anything startling.

The Daniel Baker nine will meet Baylor on Carroll Field for a second game today at 4:15 o'clock.

MANY CONVERSIONS AT UNION REVIVAL

BISHOP KILGO PREACHES AT METHODIST TABERNACLE ON PRODIGAL SON.

SIN DESIRE FOR INDEPENDENCE

Church Called to Turn Back to the Old Religion—Large Crowd Present.

The Parable of the Prodigal Son, with its modern interpretation was the theme of Bishop John C. Kilgo of North Carolina, in the Methodist union revival at the tabernacle, Eleventh and Washington streets, last night. The sermon was a continuation of that of Sunday night, in which sin was described as rebellion against God. There were fully 1500 persons seated in the tabernacle. The great choir of 300 voices led by Rev. and Mrs. Albert C. Fisher of Fort Worth, made splendid music, which was a dominant factor in the service. The close of the bishop's sermon there were several conversions, many others expressing desire for the prayers of the Christian people.

"Sin is only the desire on the part of man to become independent of God, and when he does become independent of God, he becomes a slave to everything else," was one of the striking statements of Bishop Kilgo, as he pleaded for men and women to submit to the rule of the Christ that they may master themselves instead of being mastered by every influence that blows about them. "The greatest heresy of the age," he continued, "is that of men and women who are manufacturing their religion to suit their own personal likes and dislikes."

The preacher called the church of today to turn back to the true gospel. "As long as I live," he said, "the more surely I realize one thing: that is the church of God has but one business in the world—salvation of mankind. The preacher has but one business to preach the gospel. That's my business. I have never quit. Got hates a quitter."

Cotton Oil Companies Are Sued by the State

Austin, Tex., April 12.—Suits were filed today by the attorney general's department in behalf of the state in the Twenty-sixth district court here against the Memphis Cotton Oil company and the Quana Cotton Oil company for the alleged violations of the anti-trust laws of the state on the part of each company.

The petition in each case alleges that these companies, for the purpose of preventing and lessening competition in the purchase of cottonseed at Childress and contiguous points, made certain agreements with competitors, whereby the competitors were eliminated from the market at these points. The statutory penalty is a minimum of $50 and a maximum of $500 for each day violation.

Key Rates of Many Cities Made Lower

Austin, April 12.—Reduction in the key rate of insurance was announced today by the state fire insurance commission on several Texas towns. The towns and the reductions made: San Marcos, 51 to 50 cents, account of fire automobile with chemical tanks; Childress, 76 to 50 cents, account of improvement in waterworks; Hillsboro, 40 to 39 cents, account of improvement in waterworks, two new automobiles and arson reward; Mexico, 52 to 50 cents, account of fire automobile and arson reward; Greenville, 35 to 33 cents on account of additional firemen and policemen and arson reward.

Texas Cases Affirmed U. S. Supreme Court

Washington, April 12.—The supreme court today affirmed the judgment of Texas courts against the Texas & Pacific railway in favor of Clara Hill for $21,000 as compensation for injuries suffered in a railroad accident at Atlanta, Tex., and to Miss Mary Marcus for $600 for injuries received in falling from a train vestibule at Marshall, Texas.

Banker Who Gambled Dies in Hospital as Charity Patient

Chicago, April 12.—Ignatius J. Chileski, lawyer and private banker, who in 1911 fled from Chicago with clients and depositors clamoring for more than $100,000 of their money, which he declared he had lost in gambling, died today in the tuberculosis ward of the county hospital, a charity patient, under an assumed name. He was brought to the hospital a few days ago from a south side rooming house and gave the name of Joseph Wagner. His death ended a four years' search conducted by his wife and children. When he became a fugitive he fled to South America, from there to Africa and later visited Asia. His efforts to establish himself in business in a foreign country failed and a year ago his health gave way. He returned to Chicago a few months ago, hopelessly ill and without funds. He did not communicate with his wife and family, evidently preferring to suffer in prison. Just before he died at the hospital he revealed his identity to a nurse and whispered: "Tell my old friends that I paid for my folly with my life. Gambling did it all."

Senator Senter Would Alter Court Methods

Austin, April 12.—Governor Ferguson was today urged by Former State Senator E. G. Senter of Dallas to submit at the coming special session of the legislature a recommendation looking to the empowering of the supreme court of the state to revise the code and practices followed in Texas and to repeal all the laws now governing practice in the state. Senator Senter said that 85 per cent of the decisions of the appellate courts of the state are filed with the subject of procedure, while the federal courts have only 15 per cent. This condition is brought about by the absence of uniformity in the state. The governor has taken the matter under consideration.

Provident Heights Boys Arrested for Throwing at Car

That a crowd of boys on West street threw overboard eggs at him while he was riding on a Provident Heights car yesterday afternoon, some of them hitting him, ruining his clothes and causing him other discomfort, is the complaint of Joe Douglas, negro porter at a local hotel, filed with Chief of Police McNamara last night. Three of the boys will appear in the corporation court this morning to answer the charge.

Pea Plant at Rising Star.

Rising Star, April 12.—J. F. Montgomery has definitely announced that he will put up a pea plant at this place to process black-eye peas for the market. Several hundred acres have already been subscribed for that crop, and hundreds more will probably be planted.

There have been subscribed more than forty acres for cantaloupes, more than twenty for tomatoes, and quite a considerable number for truck crops of other kinds, including sweet potatoes and onions. And as the late fruit crop down to a stand, the Fruit and Truck Growers' association will likely have a great deal of stuff to handle. Peanuts, hogs, truck, dairy and fruit are rapidly taking the place of cotton here.

Inspect County Roads.

Belton, April 12.—County Judge W. S. Shipp and County Commissioners W. S. Denman, John W. Williams, Siskey and N. B. Vernon departed for San Angelo this morning to inspect a system of county roads being constructed there. They will also investigate the method of applying oil to roads in order to alleviate the dust with the end in view of adopting same here.

New Pastor at Temple.

Temple, April 12.—Dr. W. S. Tull of Kentucky will be the new pastor of the First Baptist church of Temple if he accepts a call extended him by a unanimous vote at a congregational meeting held yesterday. Dr. Tull paid this city a visit several weeks ago and intimated favorable consideration of a call extended unanimously, hence it is felt that acceptance is sure. The church has been without a pastor since Jan. 1 of this year.

The Drive, Via Oregon.

Two Manhattan physicians were enjoying the breeze from the front of the "Drive" deck of a Riverside Drive bus one bright afternoon recently, when part of their conversation was overheard. It ran like this: "I performed an operation for appendicitis on the wife of a millionaire yesterday," said the stouter of the pair. "Yes," said the other. "What was she suffering from?"—Portland Journal.

But Two Ships to San Juan.

Washington, April 12.—Treasury department officials believe the coast guard cutter Algonquin can handle the neutrality situation at San Juan, Porto Rico, making it possible for the destroyers Smith and Preston to come home for overhauling before the maintenance of the Atlantic fleet. Acting Secretary Newton discussed the matter today with Secretary Daniels.

Witnesses Connect Todd and Lischke With Graham Killing

Wichita Falls, Tex., April 12.—Principal testimony introduced by the state today in the trial of Representative Fry and three others for the Graham court house shooting, appeared to connect R. M. Todd of Young county and J. B. Lischke of Fort Worth with the affair. Both are defendants in the trial, Peter Fry, brother of Representative Fry, being the fourth defendant.

Lischke was identified by S. M. Jones of Graham as a man who came to Graham just before the shooting and registered as "John Giamhart of Dallas." Claud Carlton, brother of Patrick Carlton, one of the men shot by the guards, testified that a few minutes after the shooting early on the morning of Feb. 24 Todd and Lischke had come to his room in a hotel and asked if Lischke could spend the rest of the night there.

Todd said that if anything comes up, remember this fellow (Lischke) has been here all night," Carlton testified.

The defendants are accused in connection with the death of Deputy Sheriff Thomas Cherryholmes, killed while guarding certain county records, said to be connected with forged warrants against Representative Fry.

Three New Trustee Elections Ordered Over the County

Ties resulted in three school trustee elections held in McLennan county on April 3, according to returns received yesterday by the county commissioners' court. Elections to vote off the tie were ordered in the Frost, Elk and Speakeville districts, all of them being set for May 4.

In the Frost district, W. R. Golsen was elected trustee, Dick Stanfield and W. T. Rogers receiving the same number of votes. J. H. Mims and H. C. Davis each received nine votes for the other position. E. B. Hawkins was named by the commission to preside at the election.

At Speakeville, L. A. Hallett was elected, J. H. Youngblood and W. W. Morse being tied, with 41 votes each. A. L. Mills will preside at the election.

Other returns received yesterday were: Woodlawn, J. M. Taylor, H. B. Duncan and E. W. McClain, elected; District No. 16, John Smajstra and Albert Ditterman elected.

News Force Treated to Midnight Lunch by Charles Robinson

Thoughtful Elks Are Made Honorary Members of the Dog Watch.

Charles Robinson, who makes a specialty of winding clocks, and has made Waco Elks debtors to his hospitality for to these many years on the occasion of starting the big clock in the club rooms on its year-long ticking, cheered the night editorial force of the Morning News last night with a delightful lunch, served at fresco on the proofreader's table.

The hot bird and the cold bottle were there, with all the accessories. Due to consideration of the prohibition tendencies of the Morning News force, the hot bird was a fine chicken, toasted to a turn, and the cold bottle was of the product of Doc Lazenby's artesian bottling works. The News force is very grateful to Mr. Robinson and W. B. Knight for their thoughtfulness, and they have been enrolled as honorary members of the Dog Watch, whose vigil they so effectively cheered last night.

Sullivan Trial Begins.

Frank P. Sullivan is on trial in the Fifty-fourth district court for robbery with firearms. It is charged that, accompanied by Frank Collins, he robbed the Turner & Pipkin drug store, Eighth and Franklin, several months ago. Collins has been tried, convicted and given fifteen years in the penitentiary. Judge Munroe appointed G. B. Rogers to conduct the defense.

Negro Arrested for Murder.

Waxahatchie, Tex., April 12.—John Johnson, negro, was placed in jail here today on a charge of murder in connection with the killing here a month ago of John Jones, white. The negro was said to have been implicated in the case by Joseph Larkins, a negro, sentenced to hang April 17 for Jones' murder.

Waco Pastors Will Talk on City Nurse Proposition Sunday

In nearly every church in the city, the city nurse will receive attention next Sunday. At a meeting of the Pastors' association of Waco, held in the Y. M. C. A. yesterday morning, this decision was reached after the subject had been presented to the pastors. Baptist preachers in the association had already discussed the visiting nurse in their own denominational conference, held previously, and many of these repeated their sentiments expressed then, which were that the visiting nurse would be of incalculable benefit to the city. Every pastor present pledged himself to use the work of the nurse as subject matter for an address from his pulpit Sunday.

MARKET REPORT

COTTON

New York, April 12.—After making new seasonal records on a continuation of Saturday's buying movement, cotton turned easier under heavier realizing, with the close steady but at a net decline of from 2 to 8 points.

Relatively firm Liverpool cables promoted the early buying movement and after opening firm at an advance of 1 to 3 points, the market sold about 8 to 13 points net higher. This advance carried October contracts up to 10.50, or close steady but at a net decline of from 2 to 8 points.

Much of the early buying appeared to have been in the way of covering and once the demand from shorts had been supplied, prices soon turned easier. The offerings of May were readily taken at a discount of some 30 to 35 points from the Liverpool market, and after a reaction of 15 to 20 points from the early high level, fluctuations were more or less irregular with trading less active.

Reports of the south probably promoted some of the selling on the decline and there was a good deal of bearish or reactionary talk around the ring during the day. Closing prices were within 3 or 4 points of the lowest. Consignments of cotton to arrive in New York in considerable volume and warehouse stocks here are now in excess of 138,000 bales, but part of the supply is coming from relatively high-priced markets in the southwest and some estimate that fully one-half of the larger trade in cotton is in storage here for foreign account.

Private cables attributed steadiness in Liverpool to continued good spot demand and some of the larger trade interests were buyers of October on the afternoon's decline.

Exports today 28,218 bales, making 6,775,367 so far for this season. Port receipts 28,888. United States port stocks 1,478,286. Interior receipts 16,317.

New Orleans.—Although cotton displayed steadiness today in the early trading and made new high records for the season on all months the market became soft before the session was very long and, under extensive liquidation went into a pronounced decline, closing at the lowest at net loss of 11 to 15 points. At the best of the day prices were 7 to 8 points over last week's close. From the highest to the lowest there was a fall of 16 to 21 points on the most active months.

Shortly after the opening the market handled a large volume of buying orders which put July to 5.95 and December to 5.42. When the market looked strongest it was flooded with offerings appearing chiefly from the buyers of last week, and there was a quick sag of nearly a dollar a bale.

In the early afternoon a momentary recovery was made, but after the opening the market made no real display of steadiness.

NEW HAVEN NOTES SOLD.

New York, April 12.—A syndicate composed of New York and Boston banks and banking houses have purchased from the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad $27,000,000 one-year 5 per cent notes. The proceeds of the issue, together with $3,000,000 cash to be taken from the railroad company's treasury, will be used on May 1 in paying off $20,000,000 of 5 per cent collateral notes of the New Haven railroad and $10,000,000 of 5 per cent notes of the Harlem River & Port Chester railroad, guaranteed by the New Haven road. The collateral back of the new note issue is composed of securities of the New Haven road having a valuation in excess of $40,000,000.

STOCKS AND BONDS

New York, April 12.—Irregularity which bordered closely upon reaction at the close was the dominant note of today's stock market. Trading was active enough at times to indicate that speculative interests were still in control, but the course of prices suggested not only further selling for profits by home and foreign interests, but a renewal of aggressions as well.

Unsettledness was most pronounced in the final hour, when Bethlehem Steel once became the center of a feverish buying movement, which sent the price up to 125, or 8 points above its previous record figure. The stock closed at 124, a net gain for the day of 16 points. As heretofore, no reasonable explanation for the rise was obtainable, and stock market observers ascribed the move to a further driving of the shorts. United States Steel held its recently acquired prominence for the greater part of the session, with another heavy total of individual transactions. At its best it sold within 1 1/2 points of last week's high price, but in common with the general list fell back in the final dealings.

Other leaders, like Union Pacific, and some of the dividend-paying shares failed to equal recent high quotations. Annihilated Copper was the only important exception. Metal shares as a whole were firm, Great Northern Ore certificates manifesting special strength. Motor shares were noteworthy for their heaviness, with losses of 2 to over 4 points. Other industrials and specialties moved unevenly, with offsetting gains and losses. Missouri Pacific reflected the general belief in adjustment of the company's forthcoming obligations, but Rock Island moved languidly in the absence of definite advices respecting the outcome of the shareholders' meeting in Chicago.

Time money was notably higher for all dates, the increased demand from stock exchange brokerage sources contributing appreciably to this situation. London and Continental exchange were lower on heavy offerings of remittances. Total sales of stocks were $2,900 shares. Bonds were irregular, total sales $3,675,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

WHEAT

Chicago, April 12.—Bulls had the advantage today in wheat. Exporters were buying new crop futures, and it was apparent that cargoes of the old crop would soon be moving freely over the great lakes. The market closed unsettled, but 1/2¢ to 3/4¢ above Saturday night's level. Corn finished 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ up, oats, down 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to a shade advance.

Knowledge that the last of the sea raiders was out of the way for the present seemed to have considerable effect on sentiment favoring higher prices for wheat, the idea being that shipments would be safer and the insurance risk less. This theory was in a measure confirmed by a rush of eastern orders to purchase July delivery here.

Corn advanced at first with wheat, but country offerings grew larger and the were reports that a large industry had stopped buying at St. Louis.

Holders of oats unloaded rather freely after corn turned weak.

Higher prices for hogs failed to sustain advance in provisions.

Vehicle History Old as Human Race.
The development in the factory system of manufacturing carriages is such that you can buy today for $50 a better carriage than could have been made by hand a few years ago for upwards of $150.

Fifty years ago carriages and wagons were made almost entirely by hand in small shops employing from 6 to 20 men. The only labor-saving machinery then used was the lathe.

There were very few carriages in the country, and the farmers' wagons were made in the village shop, often having wooden axles. The chaise, the pleasure carriage was called, was the luxury of the wealthy.

The secretary of the Carriage Builders' National Association says that the history of vehicles—carriages and wagons—begins on the first pages of the recorded history of the human race.

Home describes them in his poems and Herodotus makes frequent mention of them in his histories of the ancient nations. Both chariots and wagons are mentioned in the earliest sacred books of the Jews.

Fifty years ago there were seen to have a long and interesting line of ancestry, beginning in the remotest eras of antiquity. Within more recent times the Roman biographer and historian, Suetonius, mentions the business of the carriage maker in his day, which was about 150 A. D.

In the so-called "Dark Ages" the art of vehicle construction declined along with every other art and science cultivated by the more highly civilized peoples of Greece and Rome. The first glimmer of dawn in the carriage making industry came along about 1280, probably because it is said that in that year Charles of Anjou, king of Naples and Sicily and brother of Louis IX of France, accompanied by his queen, entered Naples in a small but wonderfully decorated vehicle.

About the beginning of the 15th century very marked improvements were begun in the making of carriages. In 1474 Emperor Frederick III of Germany and of the Holy Roman empire attended the council at Frankfurt in a closely draped carriage, and in the following year he drove up in a magnificent open carriage with a canopy top. It is recorded that there were only three coaches in Paris in 1580. One of these belonged to the queen, another to Diana of Poitiers, a mistress of Henry II and noted for her influence at court, and the third was the property of Rene de Laval, nobleman, whose vast physical growth precluded the possibility of his getting astride a horse.

The number of hackney coaches increased from 700 in 1694 to 800 in 1715. Notwithstanding the competition of the sedan chair the hackney coach held its own and finally grew in importance until about 1820, when the cabriolet, abbreviated into cab, supplanted it.

In feudal times the lords of the land took mighty to the carriage, supplying themselves with luxuriously equipped conveyances, each trying to outdo the other in the rivalry that sprang up throughout the land to see who could sport the most magnificent equipage. This naturally greatly stimulated the carriage building trade and a number of very fine, though uncomfortable, vehicles were constructed.

Most Old People Are Constipated

The wear of years impairs the action of the bowels. With advancing age people are disposed to restricted activity and exercise, which is responsible for the constipated condition of the old folks. The digestive organs are more sensitive to the demands made upon them and rebel more quickly.

A mild, effective remedy for constipation, and one that is especially suited to the needs of elderly people, women and children, is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that is sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 412 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

Requiem High Mass for Father Gignac

Quite a number of friends and the student body of the Academy of the Sacred Heart and St. Basil's college attended the solemn high mass of requiem sung in the church of the Assumption here yesterday morning for the repose of the soul of the Very Rev. T. F. Gignac, C. S. B., who died in Detroit on April 4. Father Gignac was for three years president of St. Basil's college, and was widely known in Catholic religious circles. The officers of the mass were: Celebrant, Very Rev. T. V. Moylan, C. S. B.; subdeacon, Rev. E. J. O'Neil, C. S. B.; sacristan, W. Ginter; master of ceremonies, J. Spratt.

Crop Conditions Good Around Chilton

Crop conditions are quite promising around Chilton, Falls county, even though the crops are a little later than usual, and business conditions are greatly improved, according to J. W. Earls, editor of the Chilton Homestead, who was a pleasant caller at this office yesterday. He said the good rain of last week came in very nicely in his community, though the rain did not extend very far south of there, Lott having been left without any precipitation at all.

AMERICAN IDEALS GAINING IN ORIENT

PORTRAITS OF WASHINGTON ARE COMMON IN JAPAN, DR. MABIE TELLS ROTARIANS.

NO DECISION GIVEN IN DEBATE

Relative Merits of Coal and Natural Gas Unsettled—Secretary Snead Resigns.

Portraits of George Washington are more common in the households of Japan than in those of the United States, and the people of India are studying the constitution of the United States more diligently than the pupils in the schools of this country, declared Dr. Henry C. Mabie, secretary of the American Baptist Missionary union, with headquarters at Boston, in a brief impromptu address before the Rotary club yesterday at noon. He came as the guest of President Brooks of Baylor, he being engaged in the delivery of a series of addresses at Baylor, and responded to a request for a brief speech.

American ideals and ideas of government are gaining such a foothold in many places in the Orient that they may come to dominate a large section of that portion of the world, in Dr. Mabie's opinion. The action of the United States in returning to China the $12,000,000 indemnity exacted from that country during the Boxer uprising had much to do with impressing the high ideals of this country upon China and other countries of the Far East, Dr. Mabie declared, and in spite of the fact that we are not accustomed to regard China as aggressive and progressive as Japan, China is nevertheless making very rapid strides along modern lines of endeavor and development.

And to American citizens traveling in the Orient are accorded more freedom and privileges than to the citizens of any other country, largely because of the regard which the people of that part of the world have for the high ideals of this government and its people. Indicating the rapid industrial progress that is being made in China, Dr. Mabie said that the Commercial Press of Shanghai, a publishing house engaged in the publication of all the latest scientific works as well as other books, which started a few years ago with a capital of only $5,000, was now employing 1,000 persons in its central plant and had established six branch houses in that country. It has thirty-eight printing presses in operation in its plant, its business amounts to several million dollars a year and recently during a missionary celebration in Shanghai the publishing house had the 1,200 delegates as its guests at an elaborate Chinese banquet. China is rapidly adopting the educational system of America and before President Yuan Shi Kai assumed that office he had established 25,000 schools in the province of which he was governor.

Marked progress toward the American ideals of government and education are being made in India, in spite of the fact that there is little chance of that country becoming a republic for awhile, Dr. Mabie said, and in view of the large international following in matters of government, education, ethics and the like which the United States has, it is incumbent upon all American citizens to see that the ideals and principles upon which our government was founded are preserved. He expressed his appreciation of the things for which the Rotary club stands and especially for the work it is doing among the boys of the city who have to struggle for a living.

His address was enthusiastically received. No decision was given in the debate between W. D. Lacy Jr. and F. L. Boothe on the relative merits of coal and natural gas as a fuel. The arguments of the two speakers were factious rather than serious and were enjoyed by the audience. Mr. Lacy championing coal, in which he is a dealer, and Mr. Boothe, of the Texas Power and Light company, defending natural gas.

C. G. Snead, secretary of the club since its formation two years ago, tendered his resignation yesterday, due to the fact that his business calls him out of the city much of the time. The resignation was accepted with regrets and President J. M. Penland named H. M. Cox, chairman of the membership committee, to fill out the unexpired term of Mr. Snead, which is only about three weeks. At that time a regular secretary will be chosen.

Impromptu addresses were made yesterday by Judge George N. Denton and S. R. Hankins, secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

Next Monday Frank J. Trau will deliver the principal address of the meeting, to fill out the benefits to accrue from the trade trips that will be made under the joint auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and the Cotton Palace.

E. F. Drake will be toastmaster next week and special features of the program will be provided by a committee consisting of W. W. Woodson and John F. Wright.

A Lesson from the Past

Years ago, before baking powders were so well known, the housewife sometimes made her own from cream of tartar and soda.

These materials were then comparatively expensive and processes of refining had not been devised to bring them to the high state of purity of the present-day well known cream of tartar baking powders, such as Dr. Price's; and yet she never thought of buying alum, then as now a cheap and inferior substitute for cream of tartar. She wouldn't think of permitting an ounce of alum to enter her kitchen.

Yet housekeepers are to-day asked to buy alum baking powders with which to make food for their children.

The statement on the label affixed to every can naming the ingredients of which the baking powder is composed affords a method of protection against the use of undesirable kinds.

Elk Army and Navy to Lay War Plans at Headquarters Today

This afternoon at 5 o'clock at Elks Army and Navy headquarters here, Elks' building, there will be a meeting of the general executive committee to go over all details being perfected for the proper reception and entertainment of the Elks' Army and Navy in Waco, May 10, 11 and 12.

The general executive committee is as follows: W. W. Seley, J. H. Lockwood, W. R. Davidson, Dr. L. M. Glasson, R. E. Lane, L. O. Puckett, W. B. Knight and Ben C. Richards. The other committees and their personnel are:

Finance committee—Dr. L. M. Glasson, W. A. Holt, John C. Ray, S. Fleming, Alex. Sanger, Ben Richards, J. H. Lockwood, Harry Archibald, W. R. Davidson, L. M. Glasson. General recruiting committee—Roy E. Lane, Dr. L. M. Glasson, W. B. Knight, Wm. Smith, Chas. Trautman, C. H. Ruebeck, E. C. Wosni, Clint Farmer, B. F. Billingslea, R. M. Mosely, W. T. Lockwood, W. A. Burrows, H. J. Coffield.

Publicity and program committee—W. B. Knight, M. B. Davis, A. R. McCollum, W. V. Crawford.

Refreshments—R. S. Lazenby, John Dollins, Charles Robinson, G. H. Luedde.

Building and grounds—Dr. L. M. Glasson, W. J. Neale, J. H. Lockwood, W. B. Morrison, W. W. Davis.

Music—W. D. Rondthaler, Abe Gross, W. J. Neale, Sol Hirschberg, Ben Richards.

Parade—S. S. Fleming, T. C. Edmondson, R. V. McClain, John B. McNamara, Guy McNamara, Charles Moore, C. L. Westbrooke, L. C. Westbrooke, H. B. Culpepper.

Automobile—John C. Ray, J. W. Saunders, Percy Willis.

Light and decoration—T. J. Woulfe, Ben Richards, Sol Hirschberg, Alex. Sanger, Frank Miller, W. R. Davidson, Frank Vesey.

Smoker and entertainment—W. A. Holt, W. D. Rondthaler, L. C. Puckett, A. Riley, J. K. Rose.

Badges—Roy E. Lane, W. A. Holt, Sam Sanger, S. Archibald.

Prizes—Roy E. Lane, J. H. Lockwood, W. A. Holt.

Every member of every committee is urged to be on hand promptly this afternoon at the appointed time. It is expected that the invading army and navy will number 10,000, as it has gone broadcast over the entire southwest that Waco, known for her great hospitality, is preparing for the most elaborate entertainment ever prepared in her history.

There are several thousand commissioned officers in the Elks' Army and entire companies of the Elks' Army and Navy will be here from every quarter.

El Paso, Amarillo, Denison, Texarkana, Beaumont, Grovesville—these faraway cities will send large contingents.

T. H. Williams, local representative of the Southern Traction company, is putting out a great deal of advertising as far as Denison, and states that hundreds will come from off the interurban.

Sheriff S. S. Fleming will head a committee this morning to see who have not already paid the local "war tax" for the entertainment of the invading hosts. There will be various military and naval balls, smokers and entertainment features that will make the occasion one to be ever referred to by all participating.

Thefts Reported From Professors at Baylor University

Prof. W. T. Gooch of the chair of chemistry at Baylor is minus a new unused fire alarm and tube from off his automobile which burglars secured Saturday night when they broke the lock on his garage and took the emergency equipment which he always carried on his car. His residence is at 808 Speight street.

A few nights ago some one stole the bicycle belonging to Prof. A. P. Hickson, professor of physics at Baylor, from his boarding house and entered the physics laboratory at the university and in addition to taking about $25 worth of apparatus from the room, procured a new $22 kodak belonging to one of the students.

The thefts have been reported to the police department.

PHONE AND TRAFFIC ORDINANCES PASSED

COTTON PALACE DIRECTORS ARE AUTHORIZED TO CHANGE COURSE OF CREEK.

PAVING TAX TIME IS EXTENDED

Three City Commissioners End Public Service With Yesterday's Meeting.

Commissioners Foster, Littlefield and Caulfield will sit for the last time as commissioners of the city of Waco tomorrow morning, when the commissioners elected recently, John Dollins alone of the old commission remains his seat. It was proposed to transact no business at the special meeting yesterday, but at the meeting yesterday some matters were carried over for consideration, and will come up at the special meeting.

An ordinance amending the traffic regulations of the city so that automobiles and other vehicles may stand on the streets within the fire limits at an angle of 45 degrees to the curb, was passed by the city commission at its meeting yesterday morning. The amending ordinance as first read and passed by the commission provided that vehicles must stand at an angle of 45 degrees to the curb, and indicated that he would veto the ordinance because of it. He said there was no convenient way for a driver to determine when his vehicle was at an angle of 45 degrees to the curb, and thus amended the ordinance met the approval of the mayor and was signed.

The telephone ordinance supplementing the franchise of the Texas Telephone company was passed on its final reading with only minor changes to clarify the meaning. No objection was raised to the ordinance, which has been prepared in conferences between the commission and representatives of the telephone company on final passage, as he has done on previous readings, maintaining that the company should not be allowed discretion to charge three months' rent in advance.

Authority was given to the directors of the Cotton Palace association to change the course of Waco creek in the Cotton Palace grounds, S. N. Mayfield, secretary of the association, presenting a change of the proposed change, which was approved. The city has appropriated $2000 to aid the Cotton Palace directors in doing the work. The course of the creek through the grounds being made that overflows will be prevented.

Upon the suggestion of Thomas A. Caulfield, finance commissioner, property owners of the city owning paving taxes will be allowed until May 1 to pay one half of their assessments. The other half of the tax must be paid within 90 days. In case half is not paid by May 1, the city attorney was instructed to enter suit against delinquents.

Final estimate of the Texas Bitulithic company of $4000 for paving North Eighth street was allowed. The bill of C. L. Johnson & Son for $723.73 was ordered paid. The bill was for lumber, the principal item being $65.73 for creosoted timbers used in flooring the new suspension bridge.

The Waco company presented a proposal for opening North Tenth street through their addition, beginning at Third street. The company proposes that the city allow it to reduce School street to an alley, moving the property line back 30 feet into the street. In return they propose to deed to the city a strip 80 feet wide through the addition for extension to North Tenth. The matter was carried over to the special meeting Wednesday.

Motion Picture House for Temple. Temple, April 12.—The Crescent Motion Picture theatre, a new $10,000 modern fireproof playhouse, which has been under construction for the last three months, has been completed and was opened to the public this afternoon. The owner is J. J. Hegeman, formerly of Galveston, and at present engaged in the motion picture business in this city.

NO STOMACH PAIN, GAS, INDIGESTION IN FIVE MINUTES

"PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN" IS THE ONLY REAL STOMACH REGULATOR KNOWN.

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"Really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that's just what Pape's Diapepsin does. It's the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach—its truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness. A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back. It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach regulator in the world.
